Otto Succeeds McSparran As Atlantic Dairy's President

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — More than 600 dairy farmers crowded into the Lancaster Showroom in the Host Resort Thursday evening for the annual meeting banquet for the 3,800 member Atlantic Dairy Cooperative. Earlier in the day Robert McSparran, Atlantic's president for the last 15 years, announced that he had reached the age of mandatory retirement in the cooperative's by-laws and this meeting would mark his last official duty. The Peach Bottom dairyman had been a director for 29 years.

During his report to the membership McSparran reviewed the many milestones Atlantic has achieved. He praised the cooperative's long-standing tradition of keeping the welfare of the membership as its primary goal.

"From the time our founding fathers had the foresight to band together, the cooperative has evolved from a bargaining co-op into a vital marketing force," he said. "These milestones are the result of the leadership of the

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — One day Sen. Roger Madigan (R-Towanda) realized something that would change his life forever.

Working on his family farm, he came to the conclusion that the decisions being made "off of my farm had more impact on the bottom line than the decisions we were making in the farm operation.

"It was clear to me," said Madigan, "as a farmer, I needed a voice in the halls of Harrisburg and Washington."

So he decided to become involved in a lifetime of public service and to provide the voice for farmers in government.

Madigan has served in the state Senate since 1984 after being elected to four terms in the state House, where he also served on the Agriculture Committee.

For his efforts through the years, Madigan was honored with the 1995 Distinguished Service To Agriculture Award at the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) 45th Annual Member Recognition Banquet on Tuesday night at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center.

More than 600 PFB members and other statewide supporters were on hand at the banquet to

Nutrient Management Advisory Board Wrangles Over Public Services

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Nutrient management regulatory efforts are ongoing and nearing completion, though members of the State Conservation Commission's Nutrient Management Advisory Board seemed to get bogged down Wednesday over concern about the profit-incentive for private industry to offer planning services.

The Nutrient Management Advisory Board was created as a result of the state's Nutrient Management Act, which gave the board two years to come up with regulations to carry out the Act.

Despite changes in administration and government and the subsequent delays in establishing a set of regulations, the board (comprised of representatives from agricultural interests, community interests, and environmental interests) has kept close to deadlines and has recommended to the commission a set of regulations to carry out the administration of the Act.

Those proposed regulations are in the final stages of approval, currently with the Attorney General's office.

That office has some concerns, mostly about a term in the regulations and its definition. It relates to the possible granting of an extension to implement a nutrient management plan.

The regulations state that, given planned changes on the farm requiring "substantial" expense, that putting a plan into place can be

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — At the Penn State Dairymen's Club annual meeting November 10, treasurer Dale Olver noted that the endowment fund for supporting the Penn State judging teams had reached a balance of more than $25,000, a long-awaited milepost. At that level the fund will provide more than $1,700 a year toward the team's expenses.

Olver, who is also the coach of the Penn State dairy judging teams, said they had a very successful fall season. The Eastern States team — Josh Harvatine, Donald Harwood, Dean Kohler and Melissa Morrow — placed first overall, with Harvatine as the high individual and Harwood and Kohler in the top ten. They were the top team in two breeds and second in two others.

The same team was second overall at the Pennsylvania All-American, placing in the top five for every breed with Harwood and Kohler placing in the top six individuals overall. In the National Intercollegiate Judging Contest in Madison, the team was ninth out of 26 teams and was in the top ten for three breeds. Harwood earned All-American honors placing in the top 25 individuals overall.

At Louisville, the team of George Bard, Marsha Chess, Barry Hauck and Charles Houp placed fourth overall, being first in

NE Chicken Pts 1&2

NOVEMBER 16, 1995

Trucklot buying interest was just about nil as dealers concentrated on holiday items. Offerings were generally readily available on most items with bone-in breasts the most difficult to move at any price. Retail and distributive movement was centering around seasonal holiday items. The market tone was barely steady to weak with underlying sentiment nervous.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES. NY Phil Frozen Eggs

NOVEMBER 14, 1995

Prices were generally unchanged. The market tone was fully steady. Demand continued to focus on immediate orders of full and less-than-trucklot volumes, and was fair overall. Floor stocks were adequate. Plants hesitated to process more product than orders necessitated due to cautiousness about putting current high cost production into inventory. Breaking stock supplies were generally adequate, and prices were unchanged.

MARKET COMMENT: PRICES WERE UNCHANGED TO HIGHER IN PHILADELPHIA, AND ELSEWHERE PRICES WERE UNCHANGED. THE MARKET TONE WAS STEADY TO FIRM. DEMAND WAS FAIR TO GOOD, BEST INTO INTERDEALER CHANNELS WHEN INCREASED HOLIDAY NEEDS DEPLETED CARTONED AND GRADED LOOSE FLOOR STOCKS. SUPPLIES OF LARGE WHITE EGGS WERE SHORT TO ADEQUATE, BROWN EGGS WERE ALSO SHORT IN SOME AREAS, AND THE BALANCE OF CATEGORIES WERE GENERALLY ADEQUATE. Delmarva Broiler

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was noted as seasonally slow to sluggish. Offerings varied, but generally exceeded current needs. Live supplies ranged moderate to heavy; weights were mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were again reduced, but were very heavy overall. Less than truckiot asking prices were 1 cent lower at 59 to 70 cents. Trade sentiment was generally weak. In the parts complex, wings increased in availability and were adequate. Leg items were about adequate and cleared best of all parts. Breast items, including tenders were in excess.

National Egg Market

NOVEMBER 15, 1995

Prices were unchanged to higher in the Mid-Atlantic and Midwest areas, and elsewhere, prices were unchanged. The market tone remained steady to firm. Demand was mixed in all areas from fair to very good, best where featured. Supplies of the large sizes were tight to adequate, and other sizes were generally adequate; all floor stocks were held or offered with confidence. Breaking stock supplies were limited to adequate for the moderate to good demand, and prices were generally unchanged. Live hen offerings were about adequate to short of full plant needs, and the undertone was at least steady.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
NOVEMBER 15, 1995

Grain and soybean bids continued falling as disappointing export demand and profit taking pressured bids. Wheat 1 to 5 cents lower. Corn 1 to 2 cents lower. Sorghum 2 to 4 cents lower except barge 2 cents higher. Soybeans 1 to 4 cents lower. Another day of disappointment for wheat as recent reports of sales to China and possibly Egypt failed to be announced. However, light export wheat sales to Indonesia, limited declines. Fund selling continued on the board. Corn and soybean were slightly lower on continued profit taking and slowed export business. Traders feel corn and bean bids have been oversold and declines were limited.

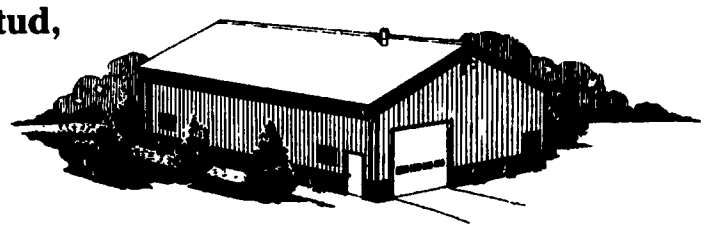
The Building you want. The Lease you need.

Whether your new farm or commercial building is of pole, timber column, stud, steel or block construction; choose Telmark lease financing.



Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost. And call your Telmark representative

Excellent Opportunity For Steady Income In Swine Production

Hostetter Management Co.

Hostetter Management Company is a swine production management group with finishing contracts available within 100 miles of Harrisburg through Wenger Feeds. We are looking for farmers interested in exploring the option of constructing and operating 2100 head finishing facilities to grow feeder pigs for market. The feeder pigs are readily available through our existing 1400 head sow units.

Why consider a swine operation??
- Steady cash flow
- 5 year renewable contracts
- Opportunity for long term growth
- Nutrient management for manure control

Hostetter Management can provide information for construction of the facility and coordinate financing. We will instruct you in the management of the barn and offer steady cash flow throughout the 4 month growing period to run the operation. No need for you to finance the growing!

If you are a farmer interested in supplementing your income, we urge you to contact us as soon as possible. Let us put our 40 years combined experience to work getting you started in this expanding market.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

THANKSGIVING DAY, NOV. 23.

DON'T FORGET THE CRANBERRY SAUCE!

An evergreen bog plant, the cranberry is closely related to the blueberry. Our native American cranberry, larger than the European variety (which is also found in North America), is the one grown commercially. It has been in cultivation at least since 1840, and is prevalent on Cape Cod and other parts of Massachusetts, in New Jersey, and in Wisconsin. Commercial growers prepare their bogs for annual flooding. The high-bush "cranberry," which is of the honeysuckle family, is unlike the bog cranberry, which comes from the heath family.

A thankful heart is the parent of all virtues —Cicero

TIP OF THE WEEK

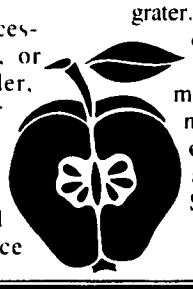
Potatoes may be roasted more quickly if they are washed in warm water and then allowed to soak for a moment.

CRANBERRY-APPLE SLAW

- 12-ounce bag whole cranberries
- 1/4 cup orange juice concentrate
- juice of 1 lemon
- 6 large apples, McIntosh or Cortland

In a food processor, blender, or meat grinder, coarsely chop or grind the cranberries, adding the orange juice concentrate and the lemon juice until just blended. This part of the recipe can be made ahead and refrigerated until needed. Just before serving, core and shred the apples in a food processor or with a hand grater. Combine the shredded apple with the cranberry-orange mixture and toss until mixed. Chopped nuts or raisins can be added as desired. Serve immediately.

Makes 6 servings.



The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Rain long foretold, long last, Short notice, soon past.

OK City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK
NOVEMBER 15, 1995

Compared to last week: Feeder steers and heifers steady. Steer calves steady; heifer calves 1.00-3.00 higher. Demand very good for calves and yearlings. Quality average to attractive with calf quality the best this season. Yearlings in thin to medium flesh with average to full weigh-ups. Calf flesh medium to heavy with average weigh-ups. Slaughter cows steady to 1.00 higher, advance on Cutters; exception noted on Canners 1.00-2.00 lower. Slaughter bulls weak. Packer demand just moderate as cow supplies ample and no stretching needed. Older bred cows continue to go to slaughter as not enough wheat pasture available to entice farmers into the other route. Bulk of cows continue to be old and in need of culling. 886 cows and bulls sold with 80 percent to packers. Receipts this week 14,875; last week 10,723; last year 14,416. OPINION

Farmers Due Respect

An appropriate tie between the nationally-recognized Farm-City Week activities and Thanksgiving Day brings to mind the fact that everyone should be thankful for the important link between between farm and city families. This event runs from Friday, November 17 until the Thanksgiving holiday.

"Farm-City Week provides us with an opportunity to share the message that we are all interdependent on one another," Pennsylvania Ag Secretary, Charles Brosius said. "Farms and cities are a team, working together to provide our nation with the safest, freshest, most affordable food supply in the world."

Without farmers, there would be no food on urban tables. And without urban residents, farm families would have no markets for their products.

In addition to the dependence on the farmer for food, many people's employment depends on the farmer's output. One farmer produces enough food and fiber for 129 people. But to get this food to so many consumers, jobs for people in marketing, transportation, processing, wholesaling and retailing are created. These jobs of distribution are created both by the farmer as his production moves out to the consumer and again as the farm imput products, services, and machinery move back from the urban factories to be bought by the farmer. Nearly 20 percent of the total workforce owe their jobs to the farmer.

It's time to tell people that both their food and their paycheck depend on one source—the farmer. It's time to give the farmer due respect. And Farm-City Week to Thanksgiving Day is a good time to do this.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Salute American Farmers

Nov. 17-23 is Farm-City Week.

This is the week we recognize the inter relation between farm and city.

As Secretary Brosius states, "Without farms, cities would have no food. Without cities and towns, farmers would have no markets and processing facilities for their products."

Today, one farmer produces enough food and fiber for 129 people. With $3.73 billion in annual cash receipts, Pennsylvania agriculture generates an additional $40 billion in related economic activity each year.

Farmers create jobs for 20 percent of Pennsylvania residents. Our food is inexpensive compared to food grown in other countries. Americans spend 11 percent of disposable income on food, less than amount spent on health care. We are able to achieve this through cooperation between farms and cities.

As we celebrate Farm-City Week, remember American agriculture is the envy of the world and we have a lot to be thankful for.

To Price Corn Silage

According to Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, there are many ways for determining the value of corn silage.

One way is to look at the value of some other feeds that you might feed if you did not have corn silage.

Two such feeds might be ear corn and grass hay. One ton of corn silage dry matter has about the same feed value as a half ton of ear corn plus a half ton of grass hay.

If a half ton of ear corn is worth $40 and a half ton of grass hay is worth $40, then their combined worth is $80. That would be the value of one ton of corn silage dry matter.

However, one ton of 70 percent moisture silage contains only 30 percent dry matter and is worth only 30 percent of that value or about $24. This is a base to start from.

In addition to moisture, prices need to be adjusted for three things: 1. quality (grain content, length of chop, mold, nitrate levels, etc.); 2. transportation, if distance is a factor; and 3. harvesting costs, if you are buying it out of the field.

To Study Computer Purchase

Buying a computer and its software may be a stressful and eye-opening experience, especially for the first-time buyer, according to Alan Strock, extension farm management agent.

Becoming familiar with computer jargon takes time. Take time to understand the terminology. Next, identify the prime and secondary uses you foresee, such as accounting, word processing, electronic spreadsheet, or enterprise management.

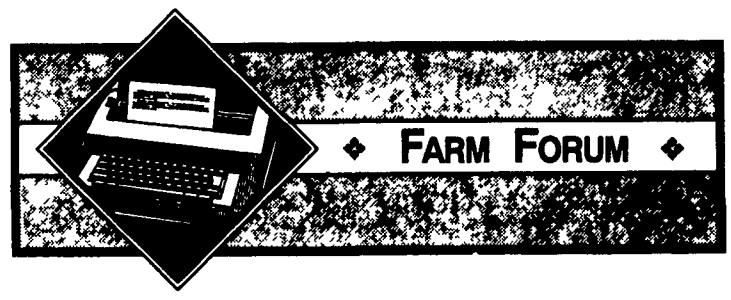
Next, select the software, regardless of brand or operating system, that will meet your needs.

Many vendors of software have demonstration disks that will allow you to run the program to see if it will meet your needs before you buy it. Talk to other farmers who are using computers for recommendations.

Finally, select the computer that will run the selected software and allow expanded uses.

Now is an excellent time to buy a computer as prices are continuing to decline for many models which are not quite "state of the art," but will be extremely functional, especially for the novice computer user.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "The effort we make to achieve our goals magnifies the joy of reaching them."



Editor:

One of the things that I always enjoyed about my early ride to school in the morning was seeing the beautiful sunrise above the mountains. The sky was aglow with the colors of pink, orange, yellow, and purple, which illuminated the rippled clouds.

There was a certain spot along my route where at the top of a small hill I could look across the wide, rolling fields and have a perfect view of it.

Then one day I noticed that those fields were no longer fields. They had become construction sites for town houses that were to be built there.

As the months passed, the town houses gradually jutted upward until suddenly my beautiful sunrise was no longer visible. They had been built immediately off the road at the very spot on the hill where I had gazed at the sunrise, but now my view was completely blocked by them.

It seems that development is taking the place of farmland all over Lancaster County. This is something that I do not agree with.

One of the biggest attractions of Lancaster County is its farmland and scenery, the very thing we're taking away with development. I think farmland should be preserved because if it isn't, developers will keep taking it over and then we will end up with little or none left.

Lancaster County just wouldn't be the same without a lot of farmland and countryside. This would also mean very little land for animals to graze. I can't imagine driving through the country without seeing our traditional Holstein cows chewing their cuds in the meadows.

If developers keep building here, it really wouldn't benefit us much. It would make the area much more crowded and less enjoyable.

DISTURBERS OF THE PEACE

Disturbers Of The Peace

November 19, 1995

Background Scripture:
Acts 15:36 through 16:40
Devotional Reading:
Acts 15:36 through 16:5

I like peace and quiet as much, if not more, as the next person. Like most people, I tend to equate it with all that is good and desirable and, given the choice, I'd choose it every time.

But, although peace and quiet are generally to be desired, there are times when it is good for the peace to be disturbed. We tend to hibernate rather than grow in the midst of tranquility. So, sometimes it is only when our peace is disturbed that we recognize that there are needs to be filled, wrongs to be righted, changes to be made.

We often make the mistake of assuming that the church is most true to its calling when it avoids disturbing the peace of either its members or the community. Actually, if the church never challenges us, never disturbs our deep sense of self-satisfaction, can it really be the church?

1st Church Eden

I'm not suggesting that the church should think of ways to disturb either its members or the community at large. But, unless your congregation is composed of perfect Christians and your community is without any reproach, just presenting the claims of the gospel will disturb the peace from time to time. If we never disturb the private and public tranquility, I don't see how we can be faithful followers of Jesus Christ, who disturbed the peace almost everywhere he went.

This was also true of the apostles. Like Jesus, wherever they went they met both positive and negative responses. When Paul and Silas arrived in Macedonia, I'm sure they had no intention of stirring up opposition there. But, as they went about the city, they were followed and nettled by a disturbed slave girl who was being exploited by her owners. Finally, "Paul was annoyed, and turned and said to the spirit, 'I charge you in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her'" (16:18).

Great! Paul healed this poor girl! But her owners didn't think it was so great. Perhaps, up to that moment they had been quite tolerant of these two foreign missionaries. But now their preaching had touched them where they were most sensitive: their pocketbooks. So, we can understand why they dragged Paul and Silas to the magistrates and cried, "These men were Jews and they are disturbing our city" (Jews were forbidden to make converts of Romans). "They advocate customs which it is not lawful for us Romans to accept or practice" (16:20,21).

Touching A Sore Spot

Just how much Paul and Silas had disturbed the peace is indicated by the reaction of the Romans: "The crowd joined in attacking them, and the magistrates tore the garments off them and gave orders to beat them with rods. And when they had inflicted many blows upon them, they threw them into prison..."

That's still not an unusual reaction when today the gospel impinges upon someone's material wealth or profit. Nothing I know will bring a faster, more certain negative reaction. People may be all for morality and righteousness, so long as it doesn't adversely affect profit on the bottom line. Sometimes even, I'm ashamed to admit, churches.

The Gospel of Jesus Christ takes just a reverse attitude: it is all for profit so long as it doesn't affect God's bottom line. When that happens, we cannot help but be disturbers of the peace.

WE WANTED TO KNOW SO WE ASKED OUR CUSTOMERS...

BROWN'S

WHY DO YOU BUY BROWN'S FEEDS?

Robert Parkoski, Hackettstown, NJ

Mike S. Zook, Honey Brook, PA

--- HERE ARE THEIR TOP TEN REASONS ---

"Brown's is always very concerned about their customers; they will always go out of their way to solve any type of problem that may occur, whether it pertains to herd health, or forage quality, or crop production, or anything else where Brown's might be of some help"
Dennis Res, Andreas, PA

10. Calf And Heifer Feeds That Work

"The summer of '93 I had mycotoxins in my forage. Brown's spent a lot of time & energy helping us through the tough spots. Thanks!"
Gerald Seibel, Manheim, PA

9. Feeding Programs That Keep Animals Healthy

Harry D. Zellers, Weatherly, PA

Eugene S. Martin, Manheim, PA

8. Brown's Suggests Ways To Solve My Problems

Samuel Forry, Jr., Rehrersburg, PA

7. Honest, Family Run Company That Cares About Customers

C.H.B. Lykens, PA

6. At Brown's You Can Talk To A Trained PhD Nutritionist

"Honesty"
Ivan Martin, Jr., Fleetwood, PA

5. Reasonable Prices and Easy To Understand Terms And Billing

4. SERVICE / SERVICE / SERVICE / SERVICE / SERVICE

3. Brown's Has Consistent Feed Quality That The Livestock Love

2. The Delivery Personnel And Office Staff Are Reliable And Care

1. Brown's Sale Representatives Know And Understand Our Needs

Dennis & Deanna Cunfer, Lehighton, PA

"When we had a barn fire, Carl Brown and Rich Graff were here and sent a lot of feed free of charge"
Caleb N. Leid, Fleetwood, PA

"It is pleasing to speak with Dr. Carl & Dr. Walt"
J. Carl & Doris J. Zander, Quarryville, PA

Tom & Dale Smith, Denver, PA

Mark Slater, Perkiomenville, PA

SMART MOVE

"THE PROVEN ONE"

YOUR NEXT MOWER

Make all the right moves for mowing quality and time-saving trimability!

AVAILABLE WITH MULCHING DECK

The new mid-size Model 600 series (12.5 or 16 hp) with advanced dual-hydrostatic drive is among the nine models from which to choose, 12.5 to 28 hp, 44" to 72" cutting widths.

Move up to a Grasshopper and enjoy fast high-quality mowing for years to come.
The "right moves" come easy so you can trim as you mow and reach where others can't go. Zero-radius maneuverability, square-corner turnability and out-front reach-ability with "no-shift" forward/reverse. Comfortable and simple to operate. Built for rugged conditions and season-after-season reliability. Make the "smart move." Ask for a demonstration.

PARADISE TOBACCO SALES

ATTENTION TOBACCO FARMERS

FIRST TOBACCO SALE:
DECEMBER 4, 1995 - 10 am

BUYERS:

Joe Irvin	B.S Beiler	Lancaster Leaf
Winstead	Mac Bailey	Sutten
Odam	Terry

RECEIVING DATES: 11/30 & 12/1: 8-3; 12/2; 8-12

These buyers will get a percentage of the tobacco according to the amount they bought over 3-5 year average at auction Tobacco will be divided out as such

Remember, there is only 100% of the tobacco offered. What will the buyer do to get more tobacco?
1 - raise the price at auction, or
2 - buy on the farm
If the buyer buys on the farm he will tell the farmer that there's no commission to warehouse and that his price will be the same as at the auction But, what will the on-farm buyer pay for low grade? If the buyer docks you on a 800 lb skid - it could pay the commission for your whole crop selling at auction

We like all buyers to buy at auction - we need your tobacco We need a full warehouse first sale
Please color grade
- Put bright tobacco in one grade
- Put tips in one grade
- Put ground leaves in one grade

Crop Costs

Have you ever figured out what it costs you to grow a ton of corn silage or hay? It's pretty simple once you do it several times. There are several ways to calculate depreciation, land value, and other costs, but we will explain the method we use.

First, we make a list like this:

Alfalfa Hay

Seed	$414.16
Fertilizer	1768.67
Chemicals	448.19
Lime	251.09
Preservative	320.96
Baler Twine	180.72
Crop Consultant	383.78
Horse Feed & Hay	1051.53
Fuel	481.93
Equipment & Mules	4115.09
Rent 50 acres @ $30/acre	1500.00
9% interest	152.00
Equipment Repairs	4895.04
Labor-433 hours @ $4.50/hour	1949.10
Total cost for 50 acres=	$17,912.26

$17,912 50=$358.24/acre
1995 yield: 3.4 tons/acre
$358.24 3.4=$105.36/ton

It is important to use accurate figures for yields, not averages or estimates, but the actual yield. Otherwise, the calculation will not be realistic enough to be useful.

Because we pay for seed, fertilizer and other inputs in December or January (we get at least a 1% price break for buying early), we include 9% interest on the amount we borrow until the first harvest (six months for hay, nine months for corn).

To figure the cost for equipment and mules, we list all the equipment needed for each crop with the current market values (what we think we could get if we sold the equipment now). Here's the list for hay:

Mower crimper w/engine	$5500
Rollerbar rake	$2000
Manure spreader	$1100
Wagons	$2300
Plow	$900
Mules (2)	$4350
Elevator w/hydraulic unit	$2200
Cutter	$1200
Forecarts & harnesses	$2000

This is only part of the list, but it shows how it may be done. Some of the equipment is used for both hay and corn silage, so we have totals for three categories: Hay-only equipment (baler, mower, etc.): $10,140; Corn-only equipment (binder, planter, etc.): $1,440; Equipment for hay and corn silage: $26,132.

To adjust the cost for equipment used for both crops, we divide the total value of all equipment by the total number of crop acres and multiply that amount by the number of acres for each crop (we have 50 acres of hay and 20 of corn):

$26,132 70x20 = $7,466.29 for corn

Then we add those amounts to the hay and corn only totals:

Total Value of Hay Equipment:
$10,140+18,665.71=$28,805.71
Total Value of Corn Equipment:
$1,440+7,466.29=$8,906.29

Assuming the hay equipment will last seven years before we need to replace it, we divide these total values by seven to get a cost per year ($28,805.71 7=$4,515.10/year for hay equipment).

The figure for equipment repairs for each crop is also calculated by dividing the total amount spent for repairs by the total crop acreage, then multiplying that figure by the number of acres for each crop.

Seed	$369.93
Fertilizer	153.51
Chemicals	1461.34
Crop consultant	153.51
Binder twine	69.28
Rent 20 acres @ $30/acre	600.00
Horse feed	420.61
Fuel	365.10
Equipment & mules	1309.19
Equipment repairs	1958.01
9% interest	186.85
Preservative (urea)	372.07
Labor (464 hours @ $4.50/hr.)	2088.00
Total cost for 20 acres:	$9507.40

Cost/acre: $475.37
1995 corn silage yield/acre: 18.1 tons
Cost/ton: $26.26

You may notice that some of our input costs are different from your own. For example, because we can make a profit by making hay but could buy corn silage cheaper than what we can grow it, we have decided to put as many acres in hay as possible. We now have each field in corn only one year before we put it back into hay. Therefore, our fertilizer costs may be a bit lower.

This spring we tried one field that was in alfalfa last year and sprayed with Roundup last fall, sowing alfalfa back into it, and it appears as though it worked. Because we know what our costs are, we would like to switch to all hay if it works out for us. So next spring we may try two fields alfalfa to alfalfa and see how that works.

The reason we quit raising corn for picking several years ago was because taking $475.37 per acre and dividing by 4 tons per acre, our cost was $118.84 per ton of ear corn! Even this year with the price of corn high, we can buy all the ear corn we want for $80-$90 per ton.

Most farmers would probably be surprised at what the cost of production for each crop actually is. By knowing exactly what the cost is, crops or cropping rotation can be changed to make more profit based on facts instead of some wild guess. Have fun calculating, and if you want to, please let us know what you find.

FFA To Receive Free Computer Games

HAMILTON, Ind.—Farm Works Software, a division of CTN Data Service Inc. located here, will make one free copy of its "Stake Your Acres" farming game available to each of the 7,264 FFA chapters nationwide.

FFA advisers have been notified that they can receive their copy of the game at the Farm Works booth at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City.

The game, which works like the real software programs, starts with the player(s) inheriting a farm complete with a house, barn, fields, tractors, equipment, livestock, and some operating capital. Then it challenges them to cope with real farm scenarios, natural disasters, and nasty insects. Players are rewarded for using good farming practices and common sense to stay profitable.

More information regarding the "Stake Your Acres" game and these other software programs may be obtained from their North East distributor, Nutrient Solutions in Lancaster County, Pa.

"For an earlier hybrid, 4394 produced good yields. It stood well, it produced good ears, standability was excellent and corn quality was good."
Ray Thrush
Cumberland County, PA

"The corn is very eye-appealing We've been planting Funk's for seven years and the product has done well for us When they're out in the field, the Funk's products speak for themselves"

Ray's results speak for themselves as well Using 4394, he won the Pennsylvania Five-acre Corn Club competition in Cumberland County, with a yield of 157 3 Bu/A

And Ray isn't the only one to get excellent results with 4394 In Penn State's 1994 New Entry trial, it recorded a 19 Bu/A yield advantage over the mean And it won the Georgetown, DE irrigated trials with a two-year average of 202 Bu/A Consistently placing in the top 10% of university trials, it is an excellent dual-purpose hybrid that responds well in low and medium populations

Whether it's yield, disease resistance, improved milk production or high test weights, Hoffman Seeds has the hybrids to add value to your seed investment For more information, call us at 1-800-776-7929

ADADC Scotland Dairy Tour Set

KINGSTON (Luzerne Co.)—The 1996 spring Dairy Tour endorsed by American Dairy Association will be a week-long visit to Scotland, announced Paul Nichols, staff member of ADADC.

The tour, scheduled for March 23-April 1, will include a one-day stopover in Reykjavik, Iceland, Nichols said. Dairy farmers and friends of the industry see how dairy farmers in other countries manage.

Reservations for the third annual tour are due by Dec. 8 in order to guarantee airline reservations.

Paul and Christine Nichols previously hosted dairy tours to Switzerland and to Ireland. Bob Hay of Hays Travel, Wysox, is handling the trip arrangements.

The complete tour price of $2,090 includes air fare, touring by motorcoach, seven full Scottish Breakfasts and dinners, sightseeing and admission. "Everything but lunch and souvenirs," said Nichols.

About 25 to 35 persons are expected to participate, he said. Be sure to send for your brochure with all the details. Phone or send for a complete brochure: Robert Hay, Hays Travel, Box E, Wysox, PA 1885-0150, or Paul Nichols, ADADC, (717) 283-2204 or at home (717) 482-4004.

N.Y. Farm Bureau Adds Staff

ALBANY, N.Y.—New York Farm Bureau recently announced it hired Kyle A. Stewart as its new assistant director of governmental relations.

Stewart, a recent graduate of The College of Saint Rose, was raised on his father's dairy farm in Washington County. At Saint Rose, Kyle majored in political science, interned for New York State Assemblyman Joseph D. Morelle and graduated in May of 1995.

Prior to coming to New York Farm Bureau, Kyle worked for Empire Blue Cross Blue Shield as a claims examiner.

"I have always wanted to work at Farm Bureau," Stewart said. "By growing up on a farm and studying political science at Saint Rose, it has always seemed to me that Farm Bureau would be the most logical and best place for me to work. Farm Bureau has a great reputation in the agricultural and political communities. I am excited by the prospect that I will be able to help effectuate positive change for the entire agricultural community."

Rick Zimmerman, the director of governmental relations and Kyle's supervisor, said, "Kyle is a welcome addition to the governmental relations staff here at New York Farm Bureau. His upbringing provides hands-on experience and knowledge relative to the many issues we deal with on a regular basis. In addition, his internship with Assemblyman Morelle has introduced him to the legislative process and the important role lobbying plays in that arena. We expect Kyle to be a major contributor toward achieving our overall goals."

Kyle is the son of Clifford and Janet Stewart of Greenwich. He currently resides in Niskayuna and is engaged to Shawn Jacko of Hauppauge, New York.

PRUA Helps With Deer Reduction Programs

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — As the National Park Service begins its long-awaited project to thin the burgeoning deer population on 8,000 acres of national park land at Gettysburg, they have called on the Pennsylvanians for the Responsible Use of Animals (PRUA) for help.

PRUA will assist the Park Service with the distribution of venison from the deer reduction project through its "Hunters Sharing the Harvest" program.

Bert Frost, wildlife biologist with the National Park Service, told PRUA, "One of the most important aspects in the reduction of deer on parkland is the ability to utilize the meat. With PRUA's 'Hunters Sharing the Harvest' program already in place, there's no better group to facilitate the distribution of the meat."

According to Ken Brandt, spokesman for PRUA, plans have been made to have the harvested deer delivered to the Hanover Locker Plant, Hanover. Owner Gary Parrish has agreed to process all deer from the Gettysburg shoot, which runs from October through March, 1996.

The Park Service anticipates reducing the herd on the Gettysburg grounds by at least 400 deer.

Additional thinning activities have been scheduled for the Philadelphia Airport, where a controlled hunt will take place. The meat will be distributed through Philadelphia food banks.

Longwood Gardens at Kennett Square is making plans to have a deer reduction program on their grounds during the regular deer season. Once again, this meat will be distributed to area food banks.

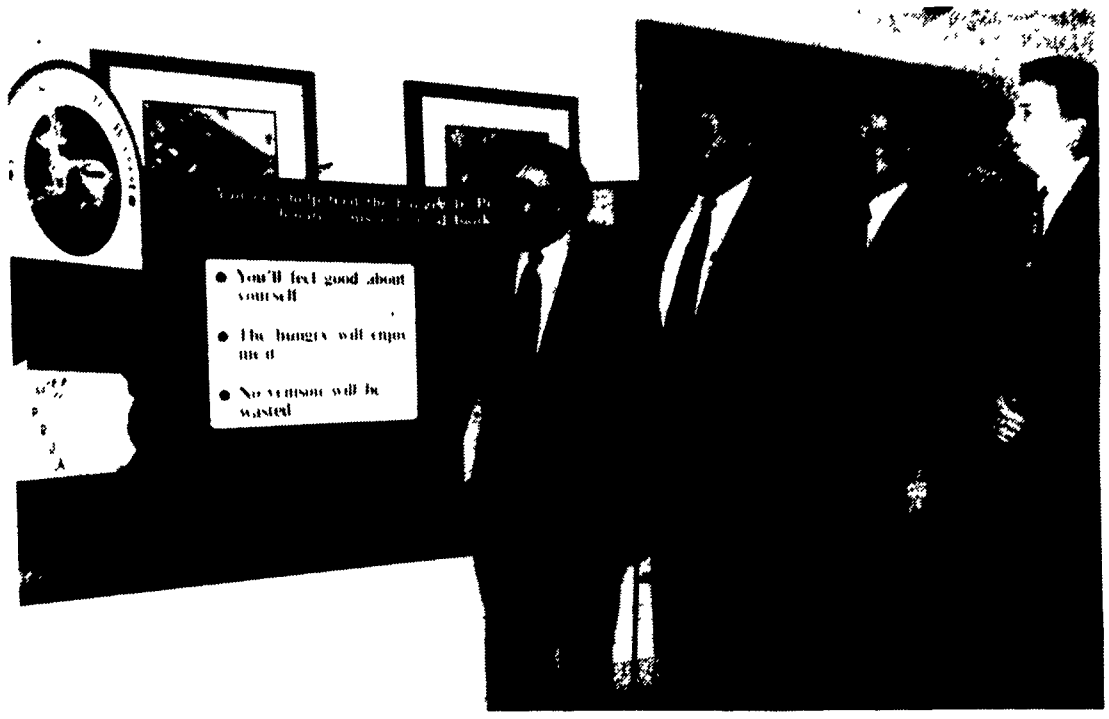
According to Brandt, the average yield will be 60 pounds of venison per head. This means as much as 12 tons of deer meat could be directed to the food banks in the central Pennsylvania area alone.

Tim Whelan, director of South Central Pennsylvania Food Banks, declared, "Food banks don't often get red meat! With this infusion of meat, we will be able to treat over 5,000 families in Adams County and surrounding areas to a hearty meal of venison. With the winter months coming, there is no better way for hunters to share their goodwill and their harvest than through this program."

PRUA is calling on hunting interest groups to assist with the cost of processing the venison from Gettysburg. Each pound of venison costs about 50 cents to process. Individuals and sport clubs are invited to commit to paying for the processing of 200 pounds or more of venison. That 200 pounds will feed over 50 needy families, according to Ray Martin, PRUA board member and Pennsylvania Sportsmens Federation.

PRUA is a coalition of 17 associations and individuals representing agriculture, biomedicine, entertainment, sports and hunting groups. The umbrella organization encourages humane treatment of animals used for food, clothing, biomedical research, entertainment and sport while at the same time strongly supporting Pennsylvanians' right to the continued, responsible use of animals.

The coalition also provides factual information to the public, the media, elected officials and those responsible for the care of animals so they can have a better understanding of proper care standards. Groups or individuals interested in supporting the venison processing can contact PRUA Executive Vice President Kenneth Brandt, P.O. Box 61, Elizabethtown, PA 17022.



From the left, Ken Brandt executive director of PRUA, Don Madl Pa. Game Commission executive director, Tim Whelan for the Pa. Association of Regional Food Banks, and Michael Markham representing United State Tobacco, program underwriter.

"Many growers want to double crop, and I can understand why You get two paychecks from one field But managed properly, 7484 is one of the best long-season beans on the market It has fast emergence and good vigor, and is no-till adaptable You should get at least 60 Bu/A, perhaps even 75. And with the heat stress we had last year, the 7484 soybeans are what saved us"

Whether it's full-season or double-crop, 7484 is a performance leader, beating the average yield by 9% in field trials throughout the region It emerges fast and produces a good canopy 7484 is especially recommended for Delmarva and Virginia farmers honor members who made significant contributions to the advancement of PFB's efforts to support farmers.

Roger Madigan, with the state's 23rd District, is "a conservationist, an avid sportsman, and a farmer," said PFB president Keith Eckel in presenting the award. "Roger Madigan is also a legislator who has used his knowledge and love of agriculture to work for the betterment and preservation of agriculture in Pennsylvania."

Madigan was cited for his role in the enactment and strengthening of the Pennsylvania Milk Producers Security Fund in the early 1980s, according to a PFB. The milk dealer-supported fund protects dairy farmers financially in the event of a dealer bankruptcy. Up until the law was enacted, several dealers had gone out of business, owing millions of dollars to dairy producers who shipped their milk to them.

Madigan, who grew up on a farm in Bradford County, was a key supporter of the state farmland preservation and the Clean and Green laws. In addition, he helped introduce S.B. 805, the Private Property Protection Act. This legislation requires government agencies to act more responsibly when promoting legislation affecting private property.

Also at the banquet, Harold M. Shaulis, Jr., Somerset, retired PFB state board member from Dist. 11, was honored with a special recognition award for his service to PFB from 1987-1995. He said serving PFB "has been an education. Money can't buy the education that serving on this board of directors provides you. You have the opportunity to go places, meet people, (and) learn things constantly."

In addition, several county Farm Bureau organizations were honored. Winning first place for their efforts in promoting PFB was the Berks County Farm Bureau and the bureau's 1,528 families, represented by Edward Hartman, Reading, president. Berks County won the All Star Award for top county. They also won individual program awards for outstanding women's committee, state legislative, national legislative, policy development, contract services, and ag commodity programs.

Second place went to Jane Balmer, Mount Joy, president of the Lancaster County Farm Bureau, and third place went to Charles Benner, Middleburg, president of the Snyder County Farm Bureau.

Earlier in the day, a young couple was selected to receive the PFB Outstanding Young Farmer Award. The award was presented to Timothy and Denise Wetzel, who operate a 262-acre dairy farm and milk 80 cows in Middleburg.

Since they began farming full time, the Wetzels have made improvements to their barn and renovated the milking parlor. Their rolling herd average has improved from 16,835 pounds to 20,387 pounds. Tim serves on PFB's Dairy Committee and the Snyder County Farm Bureau Dairy Committee. He is also the area coordinator for the Dairy-MAP program and serves as a state director for the Pennsylvania Holstein Association. Denise is a member of the county farm bureau women's committee.

Coreena Meyer, Loganton, won the discussion meet contest, which challenged nine young members to solve problems affecting agriculture. Coreena will compete in the national discussion meet contest during the American Farm Bureau convention in Reno, Nev. on Jan. 7-10. She was also the recipient of a $500 check from Dodge Truck.

During the three-day meeting, several hundred farm leaders, including 169 voting delegates, met to elect leaders and set policies for the statewide farm organization.

PFB delegates re-elected Guy Donaldson of Gettysburg to his fifth term as vice president of the organization. Board members re-elected (to two-year terms) and the county farm bureaus they represent are:

- Allen Roszel, Montrose (Susquehanna, Wayne, Wyoming/Lackawanna)
- Curtis Kratz, Souderton (Berks, Chester/Delaware, Montgomery)
- Milford Kinsman, Troy (Bradford/Sullivan, McKean/Potter, and Tioga/Potter)
- Roxy Levan, Milton (Montour, Northumberland, Snyder, Union)
- Richard Mains, Newville (Adams, Cumberland, Franklin, and Fulton)
- Thomas McIlwain, Spring Church (Armstrong, Clarion, Elk, and Jefferson)
- Alan Dambach, Fombell (Beaver/Lawrence, Butler, and Mercer).

In voting to support a pilot school voucher program, voting delegates reversed the organization's previous policy opposing any use of public funds for private schools and put PFB in a position to support Gov. Tom Ridge's revised education reform proposal. The governor promoted his proposal for a scaled-down five-year pilot school voucher program during an address before the annual meeting's opening luncheon.

Voting delegates adopted other policies, including:

- Reiteration of the organization's stance supporting the principals of a market-oriented agriculture.
- Calls for financial protection of farmers when grain dealers and grain elevators declare bankruptcy.
- Calls for a standardization of milk residue screening tests.
- Amended school tax reform policy which advocates shifting the burden from real estate taxes to a locally determined combination of real estate taxes, income taxes, plus sales taxes at the option of the local school board.

In other action, PFB President Keith Eckel appointed Jenny Teeter of Milan chairman of the state women's committee, succeeding Martha Rhoades, Emlenton.

Sen. Roger Madigan, left, was honored with the 1995 Distinguished Service To Agriculture Award at the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) 45th Annual Member Recognition Banquet on Tuesday night at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center. Presenting the award is PFB President Keith Eckel.

N.J. Honors Dairy Farmers

TRENTON, N.J. — Eight New Jersey dairy farms will receive the prestigious Dairy of Distinction Award for 1995. Since the program's inception in 1987, 62 New Jersey dairy farms have been honored.

The Dairy of Distinction Award is given to those dairy farmers whose farms, buildings, grounds, and surroundings are maintained to a high standard, stimulating pride in the dairy farms and to create a positive image for the wholesome products they produce.

The contest is sponsored by the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program with the area coordinated by August Knispel, president of the Garden State Milk Council with cooperation from the New Jersey Department of Agriculture.

August Knispel thanks all participants and encourages all dairies to apply again next year. The judges for this year were Vin Samuel and Richard Schumm, both with the New Jersey Department of Agriculture; Charlie Miller, New Jersey Farm Bureau; and David Lee of Rutgers Extension Service.

In recognition for maintaining a well-kept farmstead, giving consumers greater confidence in the wholesomeness of milk and contributing in preserving more than 220 square miles in open land (total land for N.J. dairy farms), this year's winners are:

- John Csiszlak and Family, Csiszlak Farms, Phillipsburg
- Carl and Dawn Russel, Carda Holsteins, Wantage
- Robert and Fred Fulper, Fulper Hill Farm, Lambertville (also host of the 1995 Dairy Open House)
- Duane and Catheline Young, Holland Valley Farm, Milford
- Miles and Charles Kuperus, Kuperus Farmside Gardens, Sussex
- Lisa Stangle and Tom Smtih, TLS Farm, Belvidere
- Daniel and Laura Chard, Terra Rose Holsteins, Woodstown
- John and Sarah Dumschatt and Family, Alway Welcome Jersey Farm, Hope.

Awards will be presented at the New Jersey Dairy Princess Pageant, which will be held at the Somerset County Extension Building, Bridgewater, N.J. tonight. The public is invited.

August Knispel announced that the Garden State Milk Council will be hosting the 60th year anniversary convention of the International Association of Milk Control Agencies (IAMCA). These activities will be held from August 4-8, 1996 at the Sheraton Hotel in Atlantic City, NJ.

The program plans call for tours of New Jersey dairy and related agriculture industries, exhibition of New Jersey products, and discussions of issues and ideas important to dairy farmers, regulators, consumers, milk dealers and retailers. August Knispel invites all members of the New Jersey agricultural community to support this worthwhile cause and provide a successful meeting. For more details, contact August Knispel, president of the Garden State Milk Council, (908) 735-4989 or Vin Samuel or Richard Schumm at (609) 984-2511.

During the 59th annual meeting of the IAMCO, Vin Samuel, secretary-treasurer of the Garden State Milk Council and dairy economist with the New Jersey Dept. of Agriculture, was elected president of the IAMCO.

State Conservation Commission Selects Executive Secretary

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The State Conservation Commission has selected Karl Brown, New Cumberland, to serve as its first independent executive secretary, a position that carries major responsibility for day-to-day adminstration of the regulations implementing the state Nutrient Management Act.

Brown has served with the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau in the past, as a director of local government affairs.

He is currently director for the Farm Bureau's national legislative programs and its agricultural employers programs.

Brown has a bachelor's degree in environmental resource management from Penn State University, and served as a resource conservationist with the Lebanon County Conservation District.

Brown's selection was announced this week by state Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius in a news release.

According to the release, Brosius said, "Karl comes to the position with a wide range of experience in conservation and in agriculture. We look forward to the leadership he will provide to this crucial program."

The State Conservation Commission was created to oversee the administration of the state's conservation districts — with funding coming through federal, state and county government.

With the Nutrient Management Act, the SCC was given authority to carry out the program, a measure that was agreed to by environmentalists and agriculturalists as a way to ensure non-preferential treatment or interpretation of the intent of the rules for administration of the program.

However, in the past SCC was staffed by state Department of Environmental Resources personnel, and the commission was only chaired by the secretary of DER.

In June, with the signing of the Conservation and Natural Resources Act — the act that split DER up into the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) and the Department of Conservation of Natural Resources (DCNR) — the position of the executive director of the commission was specified to be a person not in the employ of either the PDA or the DEP.

The act also provided that the secretary of agriculture take the first watch as chairman of the revised SCC, with the chairmanship to alternate every year between the two secretaries.

Also, each state department is to maintain staff to work with Brown and the SCC in the enforcement of the Nutrient Management Act regulations.

Lancaster 4-H Livestock Team National Sheep Judging Champs

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The Lancaster County 4-H Livestock Judging Team this week captured a first place nationally in team sheep judging competitions at the North American Livestock Exposition (NAILE).

According to team coach and county extension livestock agent Chester Hughes, who returned from Louisville early Thursday morning, the four-member Lancaster County team represented Pennsylvania at the national contest and "shined" in the sheep judging competition.

The NAILE competitions are the last level of competition for the team comprised of members Lisa Reiff, Dale Livengood, Gerald Boyd, and Regina Landis. The qualified for the national contest by winning the state competition earlier in the year.

The NAILE competitions requires the judging of 10 classes of livestock — beef, sheep and swine — and includes tests on performance data, oral reason and questions.

The Lancaster team was the top nationally in sheep, but also placed well overall.

Out of the 35 teams in competition, the Lancaster County team ranked sixth. In order, the top five higher ranked teams overall were Illinois, Indiana, Colorado, Kentucky, and Maryland. Two points separated Maryland and Pennsylvania.

In individual ratings, Gerald Boyd earned a fifth place for sheep judging, while ranking 15th overall. Lisa Reiff was ninth individual in sheep judging and 31st overall. Landis took a 41st place overall, out of the 140 contestants.

Hughes said he thought it was probably the first time the team has won a species division nationally.

Hughes said that industry sponsorship of the program was strong with $21,000 contributed toward awards and banquets.

Further, the top 10 individuals received limited edition porcelin horses.

"Most years, I get five cuttings with Attainer That's 9 to 10 tons of hay per acre, so I make twice as much on alfalfa as any other crop Attainer doesn't harden down as fast as other varieties, so you have a longer time to cut it in its most digestible form With Attainer, my cutting time is more flexible than other varieties

"I like to grow alfalfa The day I need to cut it, I'm there You won't get five cuttings a year if you're not I do what it needs when it needs it And apparently it works I can sell my alfalfa anytime People want to buy it because they say their cows milk well on it"

In field trials, Attainer produced 16,200 lbs of milk/acre Its large harvest window guarantees that you'll receive maximum feed value Plus Attainer is highly resistant to all major alfalfa diseases Attainer is just one of the alfalfas in our top producing lineup — a lineup that now includes W-L alfalfas

Spencer Honored

Guernseys and third in Holsteins. Bard was ninth overall individual.

The Dairymen's Club honored Penn State professor Stephen B. Spencer as the recipient of its 1995 Service Award. He is recognized internationally as an expert on milking machines and systems, and his work has earned him 11 awards, including this year's Alfa Laval Agri Dairy Extension Award presented by the American Dairy Science Association.

After earning bachelor's and master's degrees at Penn State, Spencer began his extension career as a county agent in 1957. He has served on 27 committees at Penn State as well as the boards of the National Mastitis Council, the American Dairy Science Association, and the International Association of Milk, Food and Environment Sanitarians. He has written many articles for publications, including Hoard's Dairyman.

Also at the banquet Peter Witmer, who works for the PA Department of Agriculture, made a slide presentation on how the state assists small to medium-sized agribusinesses with selling their food products in the world market. Senior dairy science students were introduced to club members.

The Dairymen's Club elected Charlie Seidel, Robert Davis, and Kirk Sattazahn to fill the expired terms of Craig Williams, Ken Raney and Dave Trotter on the board of directors. Club members are friends and alumni of the Penn State dairy programs, who provide support and advice for program development in instruction, research and extension for dairy production and who are liaisons between Penn State and the dairy industry.

To join the club contact Dale Olver at 324 Henning Building, University Park, PA 16802, 814-863-3914. Lifetime memberships are $50; three-year memberships are $15.

FARM FORUM

When people are crowding each other, they are more likely to get irritated and upset at each other.

I think a lot of development would also increase the crime rate in rural areas. We also would not be able to "get away from it all" and go for a nice walk or drive in the country as easily.

Development is robbing us of fertile soil that can be used to provide locals with fresh food. Crops that are grown locally do not need to be shipped as far, and therefore are less expensive. Also, on construction sites there is often a lot of erosion because the ground is bare. Much of this rich soil is washed away into rivers and streams, which is a more important problem than some think. When the land is farmed, the crops grown in the fields help to prevent erosion.

If we don't stop development now, or at least limit it to right outside of towns, Lancaster would not be as popular a place to visit. Our tourism would go down quite a bit since most visitors come to enjoy our rural areas.

Now, rather than long stretches of farmland in between cities and towns, the countryside is becoming increasingly more dotted with long stretches of development.

I think that in order to prevent our area from losing its attractiveness and quality, we need to keep towns separate from country and limit the flow of people from towns to developments. I can understand why people would want to move to the country, but I don't think they should bring the town with them because it destroys countryside.

Instead of building large developments on farmland, I would rather see people living in a few houses here and there so that we can still enjoy the surroundings and so can they.

Farming is a tradition here. In a world where so many traditions are broken and few are kept, I think it's important to keep this one.

PDA Names Farmland Protection Director

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius has announced the appointment of Raymond C. Pickering, Honey Brook, as director of the Bureau of Farmland Protection.

Pickering presently serves as director of the Chester County Agricultural Land Preservation Board and the Chester County Agricultural Development Council.

He was instrumental in promoting the successful Chester County Open Space referendum which allowed $50 million to be used in protecting open space and farmland. Under his leadership, Chester County has premanently protected 6,600 acres of farmland.

"Raymond Pickering brings a long history of proven experience in preserving Pennsylvania's farmland. His 10 years of work on the county level will be valuable as we focus on the most effective way of continuing to keep farmland in agriculture," Brosius said.

In his new position, Pickering will administer the state farmland protection program, and work closely with state, county, township and other government officials responsible for the implementation of farmland preservation regulations.

Pickering earned a master's degree in urban and regional planning from Virginia Tech and has a bachelor's degree in political science and public administration from the Christopher Newport College of the College of William and Mary.

In 1994, Pickering was recognized with the Chester-Delaware Farmers Association Achievement Award, and he received the 1993 National Association of Counties Achievement Award for design of the Chester County Agricultural Preservation Program.

The Farmland Protection program was instituted in 1989, with a $100 million bond issue approved by Pennsylvania voters. The program allows the state and counties to purchase development rights to guarantee that farms will remain as agricultural land.

Thirty-eight counties have county Farmland Preservation Boards. Nearly 70,000 acres of farmland are now protected on 561 farms around the state.

Pickering will oversee the implementation of new guidelines for the state program, including revision of the subdivision guidelines and changes to county programs to meet changes mandated by Act 43.

There will also be revised minimum criteria for eligibility for state funds, a farmland ranking system and summary report changes to simplify paperwork.

cooperative's officers, solid thinking by the directors, hard work by the staff, and the commitment and encouragement of the general membership."

The newly elected president is Ivo Otto Jr., a dairyman from Carlisle who has been a board member for 27 years. He had been the 1st vice president.

Otto told Lancaster Farming that he sees no major change in the way the board operates the cooperative. "I do think we need to emphasize an increased return to members," Otto said. "Somehow, we need to get product enhancement with new markets, packaging, and innovated ideas in selling.

Currently we are working on, not as Atlantic individually, but with larger promotion groups, so that we can develop new ways to use milk.

"We must move milk from a commodity into a value added product. Traditionally, as Atlantic Dairy, Lehigh Dairy, and Interstate, we have been a commodity broker in that we just sold raw milk. We have enhanced this a bit with our Holly operation in butter. But we must join the whole industry to develop a brand name and promote, for example, flavored milks so we can move from there into the same thing the colas have done.

"Promotional efforts with check-off dollars are limited in comparison with the soft drink industry's hugh budgets. It's very hard to get your message across with a limited amount of funds. What we really need to do is develop a brand name we can promote rather than just a generic milk.

"My first goal is to try to get a better return back to our producers. We need to join the industry so we can set our price and not let the market set the price for us."

In other news, Robert Dever, chief executive officer, reported that the cooperative ended the 1995 fiscal year with sales of $589 million and a net margin of $4.3 million. This was down from $7.3 million last year. But Dever called fiscal 1995 a "good year," and he said Atlantic's financial success allowed the cooperative to again issue an additional milk check to its members. The $3.4 million premium paid in September was equivalent to 9 cents per hundredweight.

This payment, along with equity, quality and over-order premiums of nearly $18 million, boosted member earnings 53 cents per hundred.

The cooperative added 600 new members and marketed 4.54 billion pounds of milk. Dever noted that ADC exported more product than ever before through the Holly plant. Total exports, including butter and dry milk powder, equaled about 2 percent of member production, or close to 80 million pounds on a raw milk equivalent basis.

At the awards breakfast yesterday morning, Mary Klaus, the agricultural reporter for the The Patriot News in Harrisburg, was named the 1995 Agricultural Communicator Award winner. Klaus was recognized for her "exemplary services to the dairy cooperative community."

Klaus joins a select group of individuals who have been honored by Atlantic for their roles as both communicator and educator. Through their work, these communicators have provided cooperative members, consumers, young farmers, industry employees and land grant universities with agricultural and cooperative information.

Also recognized were Jeff and Cindy Moore, Centerville, Maryland. The Moores were named Atlantic's young cooperators earlier this year.

Atlantic has farm members in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia.

DAVE SLUSSER
General Manager

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—At the most recent meeting of the Pa. DHIA Board of Directors, Dixie Burris, manager of the lab, reported on the successful introduction of MUN (Milk Urea Nitrogen) analysis.

As of the end of October, 607 member herds with over 40,000 cows were tested for MUN. These figures do not include the non-member SAP (Sample Analysis Program) herds.

Vermont DHIA Board of Directors voted to have Pa. DHIA do their MUN testing.

The successful introduction of MUN is attributed to a major effort by Pa. DHIA to promote the service through news releases, advertising, veterinarians, nutritionists, and county agents. Also help and advice was sought from University of Pennsylvania, New Bolton Center, Penn State, and Cornell.

New Bolton Center did our calibration samples, and will continue to do so. New Bolton is also doing calibration samples for several other DHIA's throughout the United States.

The infra red analysis system has proved to be extremely accurate and the most efficient way of MUN anaylsis. Our 15 cents per cow member fee is the lowest in the nation.

In other business, Dixie announced the annual meeting of Pa. DHIA is to be held Feb. 16, at the Holiday Inn, State College.

Dr. Jim Ferguson from New Bolton Center is to speak on MUN and its importance in dairy herd nutrition and reproductive health. The Pa. DHIA Performance Economics Program will also be on the agenda. District meetings are scheduled for Jan. 23 through Feb. 5.

Jim Boyer, manager of Pa. Dairy Records Processing Center (DRPC), reported on the nation's first MUN Analysis Report. The members who pay 15 cents per cow get this report that summarizes lactation groups, days in milk, and groups within the herd.

Boyer also reported that about four different organizations are applying for approval of new DRPCs. The trend in the nation seems to be turning from large multi-state processing centers back to smaller local DRPCs like Pennsylvania.

The field report and the general manager's report were given by Dave Slusser. The Fall Technicians Training Conferences were held throughout Pennsylvania for all our field technicians. MUN analysis and its importance to our members was explained to our technicians, by local veterinarians, county agents, and/or Penn State professors. We really appreciate the support given us by these professionals and our field technicians.

Our Performance Economics Program is complete, copies have been distributed to several interested farmers, and the board. Over the next several weeks letters will be sent to county committees and county agents requesting participation in Dairy Day Programs or county DHIA committees workshops.

Dr. Steve Ford, several county agents, and Dave Slusser are willing to present this program at meetings. Pa. DHIA Performance Economics will be free to members.

Board action included the appointment of a Long Range Planning Committee made up of five board members, and two staff members. This committee's assignment is to explore options in organization structures, and future alignments, and to lead Pa. DHIA into the 21st century. Marian Butler and Ralph Gilkinson are to attend the Basic Cooperative Directors Institute Jan. 17-19, and Dave Slusser is to be a part of the program.

The Board received and approved the finance statements, and reviewed our Accounts Receivable Policy.

President Sollenberger appointed Don Duncan, Frank Orner, John Wilcox, Lane Sollenberger, and Norm Hershey to represent Pa. DHIA at the Eastern Caucus meeting Nov. 12 and 13 in Ithica, N.Y. and he also asked the general manager to attend.

National DHIA Convention dates were announced for March 3, 4 and 5, 1996. The Board Meeting was followed by the first meeting of the Long Range Planning Committee.

DHIA Fall Conferences

Recently Pa. DHIA completed the fall technician conferences. Highlighting the conferences was discussion on the milk urea nitrogen testing.

Penn State personnel, veterinarians and county agents presented a program at each of the 14 conferences across the state. Their presentations included using overheads to stress the importance of testing for milk urea nitrogen, which is a by-product of tissue and dietary breakdown in all animals.

It was pointed out that the cow breaks ammonia down into urea because ammonia is toxic to the cow's system.

It takes energy for cows to synthesize urea for excretion. This reduces the amount of energy available for milk production.

In essence, less available energy may put early lactation cows at increased risk for ketosis. High levels of urea are toxic to sperm and embryos and can result in infertility.

Monthly monitoring of milk urea nitrogen can help to recognize when feeding changes need to be made which can directly affect the reproductive status of the herd.

Each region manager discussed the importance of monitoring the bulk tank comparisons and discussed changes being made.

Dean Amick, director of field operations, discussed technician benefits and pricing.

A certification exam was given in compliance with National DHIA's quality certification program. Along with this exam there was a retention performance evaluation given at the end of the conference to measure the retention of the information presented at the conference.

Pa. DHIA holds three conferences a year along with monthly mini meetings to continuously update and educate the technicians on any changes.

Immune Breeder Flocks Key To Controlling CAV

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — It's been said the best way to fight disease is to prevent it. That may be the only way to stem the devastating effects of a combination of diseases that could destroy a flock once chicken anemia virus (CAV) takes hold.

Dr. Bob Owen, Hubbard Farms, Inc., in Walpole, N.H., told nearly 30 poultry producers and agri-industry representatives that the key to fighting CAV is to use immune breeder flocks that have already been exposed to the virus and can pass CAV-fighting antibodies to the chicks.

Owen spoke Monday afternoon during the Penn State sponsored Poultry Management and Health Seminar at Kreider's Restaurant in Manheim.

Owen admitted how difficult it is to diagnose the disease. The disease is not new, however. It was first recorded in Japan in 1978-1979. And there's "serological evidence for this virus several decades before 1978," said Owen.

"It appears to be a new disease to us because we finally have been able to diagnose it. It's probably been around for years and years and years."

The widespread virus is known by other names, including chicken anemia agent (CAA), blue wing disease (seen as gangrenous dermatitis in broilers), as well as infectious anemia. It affects broilers and layers. The disease is caused by a virus and only recently has been classified as a member of the circoviridae family.

Owen said the virus is "the smallest virus that we know of in veterinary medicine," part of a family of viruses that can affect pigs and birds. The virus is small, measuring only 15 nanometers in diameter with less than 1,760 base pairs.

(As a point of measurement, according to Owen, CAV is 10 times smaller in diameter than the coronavirus that causes infectious bronchitis in chickens. The coronavirus measures 100-120 nanometers in diameter.)

There is only one serotype of CAV.

In the clinical form, CAV shows up in the birds at about two weeks of age as anorexia (the birds don't want to eat) and they look pale. They sit around like any chicken does when sick, with ruffled feathers, according to Owen. Chickens tend not to gain weight as rapidly as their unaffected mates. Mortality peaks 5-6 days after the first signs and can affect from 10-60 percent of the flock.

In the subclinical form, the disease can act in concert with some of the immunosuppressive viruses such as infectious bursal disease virus (IBDV), Marek's Disease virus (MDV), and reovirus.

Owen said, "This virus, combined with those other viruses, decreases the immunoresponsiveness of the birds. Does this sound like the same picture we used to paint with IBD, that we still paint with IBD?"

The problem is, CAV alone doesn't cause a great deal of disease in the birds — but acting together with other agents, it can be devastating to flocks.

When examining deceased birds, veterinarians see gross lesions. Owen spoke about a trip made to South Africa to take a look at 4-week-old birds heavily infected with CAV. "It's really very dramatic when you see it," he said. "There were chickens lying everyplace. Every one of them that we opened up had no thymus (gland) at all and the skin was falling off their wings because of infection. It can be a devastating infection when it gets into your birds."

The blood of clinically infected birds is very thin and watery. The bone marrow, rather than being a healthy, vibrant red, is actually a pale yellowish brown. There is muscle hemorrhaging. And broilers, particularly, can have dermatitis that is gangrenous — the "wet lesions" from which the term "blue wing" originated.

It is difficult to determine if birds have the "subclinical form," in which they don't exhibit signs of CAV infection but can pass them onto offspring. There is research on coming up with an ELISA test. For Owen's serology, he sends samples from the flocks down to the University of Arkansas where they do a "virus neutralization" (VN) test to check for the birds' antibodies to the disease.

The VN test is inexpensive ($25 per flock) and effective, according to Owen.

Probably the only way to ensure the clinical form of the disease doesn't show up in the flock is to check to be sure "that we don't have any breeder flocks that fall into this non-immune status," said Owen. "We can be assured that the birds in this that are not going to be challenged in the breeder house are probably going to be challenged in the brooder house."

Producers should be sure to have immune breeder flocks.

This is difficult to do with brand-new houses that are in non-poultry areas of the country. Several are being constructed in Tennessee and managers should be concerned about the evidence of the virus.

Because the USDA still believes the CAV is still an "exotic" virus, according to Owen, there is no vaccine available for it in the U.S., although researchers are working on developing one.

In the meantime, there are few viable alternatives. One is to "move" poultry litter from an established house where the flock tested positive for it to a new breeder flock, thus ensuring that the chicks can obtain maternal antibodies to the disease and be able to fight it naturally. But this exposes other threats to the birds, such as Salmonella and other diseases.

Dr. Bob Owen, Hubbard Farms, Inc., in Walpole, N.H., right, told nearly 30 poultry producers and agri-industry representatives that the key to fighting CAV is to have immune breeder flocks that have already been exposed to the virus and can pass CAV-fighting antibodies to the chicks. At left is Dr. Bill Weaver, professor and head, Penn State Department of Poultry Science.

The key to control is prevention, and prevention is having positive breeder flocks. "I think every breeder flock should be monitored at 8-10 weeks of age," said Owen.

As for CAV, "we need to be conscious of and we need to recognize it when we see it," he said.

Berks Livestock Clubs Hold Banquet

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — On Nov. 4 at the Kutztown Grange Hall, the Berks County 4-H Livestock Clubs held their annual banquet. More than 250 4-H'ers, parents, supporters, and friends attended the banquet.

4-H'ers were recognized for their outstanding achievements in different areas of the livestock program. This year the 4-H'ers were given a new challenge. Each 4-H'er was given an activity book for the species they were carrying as their project. These activity books were very educational as far as learning about their species and also teaching some important life skills.

- Troy Gelsinger (most helpful member, senior showman, senior fitter, reserve champion steer, champion heifer)
- Mark Manwiller (intermediate showman)
- Ben Weist (junior intermediate showman, most weight gain steer, junior activity book)
- Kristy Dietrich (junior showman)

Nutrient Management Advisory Board

What is unclear and could cause some legal problems from those rejected from getting an extension on compliance, is that the term isn't clearcut, from a legal view, as to how the commission would determine what is a "substantial" expense.

That issue was considered still open for discussion with the Attorney General's office. It was expressed that perhaps that concern from the Attorney General could be worked out without causing any changes to the regulations.

Any changes to regulations during the approval process requires those changed regulations to be resubmitted through the approval system. As a result, delays in finalizing regulations could scuttle plans to get public educational programs offered during critical months.

What was cause for most unresolved discussion during Wednesday's board meeting was a request to alter another set of regulations involving the Nutrient Management Act.

According to the Act, the Department of Agriculture was to promulgate regulations in order to certify nutrient management specialists.

The PDA was given that responsibility, since, in opinions expressed by the authors of the Act, the PDA has already been certifying pesticide applicators it should be able to create and administer a similar certification system for nutrient management.

Work on those regulations was done by PDA in consultation of the advisory board and its subcommittee. The board then recommended them for approval to the SCC.

However, advisory board member William Brubaker on Wednesday requested that the board now consider recommending a change to those proposed regulations.

Brubaker is involved in crop consulting and has been involved in the formation and continuation of a commercial industry program that tests and certifies crop consultants.

As a board member, Brubaker recommended that those receiving a certificate as a recognized crop consultant be given pre-certification status for nutrient management. That entitled those people to get special attention from the state and receive training and information that could advance them toward full certification as a nutrient management specialist.

The pre-certification — meaningless except for receiving educational efforts from the state — was used to expedite the creation of a sufficient cadre of qualified and trained specialists so that those farms required to have nutrient management plans can have the planning service when it is needed.

Also, it was the consensus of the board that the educational and training process should not have to wait until the certification regulations were finalized.

While none of that has changed, Brubaker's recommendation to the board was to do something extra in order to prevent public employees — namely conservation district employees who, as it stands, could be qualified to write and review nutrient management plans — from offering free planning services.

The majority of board members held silent or balked at Brubaker's requests to alter the regulations so that only commercially certified nutrient management specialists could write plans.

The Nutrient Management Act is specific in that it calls for in the creation of a certification program for commercial, public and private planners.

In the regulations already recommended by the board, the three catagories are separate in what is required in fees. Commercial and public specialist share almost equally in the amount of proven expertise required, though a public specialist would be required to show competency to review a plan.

However, the certification fee for a commerical planner is proposed as $100 every three years, while the public planner would be charged $10 every three years. (That's a paperwork payment, since it would be the government's collected tax money being used to pay the government for certification of a public employee.)

While Brubaker specifically made a motion before the board for the word "develops" to be dropped from the definition of a public nutrient management specialist, the intent as he expressed it, was to "level the playing field."

He recommended that the conservation district be required to pay the same commercial fee, or that they be required to test and certify separately as a commercial planner.

He told the board that without some measure to ensure that the private sector would be able to get enough income from completing the training and certification process, that the board risked not having sufficient planners.

He also suggested that those board members employeed by nonprofit organizations didn't understand his position because they "weren't in private industry."

The way Brubaker suggested the board deal with the issue was to prevent all public employees from performing free planning services, even though qualified and even if they would have time to actually do it for free.

Despite a series of proposals from the conservation districts that outlined that the districts would consider free planning as a lowest priority and that the districts would require people to seek out the private sector, and that the districts would provide lists of names and phone numbers of commercial planners to farmers needing the work done, Brubaker called on the board to do something to ensure that the private sector be able to make some money or else they would not be around to help administer the program.

Though more than an hour past the scheduled meeting end, five of eight board members voted to approve Brubakers request. However, that was insufficient to carry the motion, since the bylaws require a two-thirds majority of the board to pass such a measure, not just approval from a simple majority of a quorum.

Early in the development of the regulations, Brubaker voiced similar concern that unless the regulations were written so as to ensure that public service could not compete with commercial service, that the private sector would not invest its people, money or time.

However, for those areas of the state that private business does not now serve because of low customer density, most board members and advisors expressed concern that if the regulations did reflect Brubaker's request then some farmers would be without planning services.

In other business, the board spent the majority of the morning reviewing its strategy for holding public meetings on the Nutrient Management Act and what it means.

The board is to meet again Dec. 20, at a place to be determined.

Ag Secretary Appoints Food Safety Director

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius has announced that Leroy C. Corbin Jr. has been appointed director of the Bureau of Food Safety and Laboratory Services.

"Leroy Corbin has protected the interests of Pennsylvania's farmers and consumers for many years," Brosius said. "We are delighted to have an individual with his ability and commitment serve in this important position."

Corbin, a York County resident, has been employed by the department for 25 years.

After being hired as a food inspector in 1969, Corbin was promoted to regional supervising food inspector in 1971, and then to chief of the Division of Food Control in 1976.

In 1987, Corbin was named director of the Bureau of Foods and Chemistry, which was renamed to the Bureau of Food Safety and Laboratory Services last year. Corbin was appointed acting director of the bureau earlier this year.

Prior to his employment with the department, Corbin was a food inspector for the United States Air Force. He has taken a number of educational courses dealing with the food industry and is affiliated with the Association of Food and Drug Officials, the Central Atlantic States Association of Food and Drug Officials and the Susquehanna Association of Food and Drug Officials.

Legislative Proposal Would Extend Food Bank Liability

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — To encourage hunters to contribute extra venison to food banks through programs such as "Hunters Sharing the Harvest," two state legislators have joined together to promote legislation (SB 511) to amend the Donated Food Limited Liability Act for donated wild game meats.

The amendment from Sen. Roger Madigan (R-Bradford) and Rep. Matt Baker (R-Bradford, Tioga) will expand existing charitable organization food bank liability protection to persons donating lawfully taken game.

Sen. Madigan said, "This legislation will assist in promoting worthwhile programs" such as the "Hunters Sharing the Harvest" project. Although it is legal for hunters to participate now, Rep. Baker indicated that this legislation will go a long way in encouraging more hunters to make donations.

Senate Bill 511 has passed the Senate and is currently being considered in the House. Rep. Baker has encouraged the House to take action in time for the 1995 deer season.

The "Hunters Sharing the Harvest" venison donation pro-gram is now in its fifth year. It is spearheaded by Pennsylvanians for the Responsible Use of Animals (PRUA), which coordinates the efforts of hunters, meat processors and food banks to put meat on the plates of needy Pennsylvanians.

PRUA is a coalition of 17 associations and individuals representing agriculture, biomedicine, entertainment, sports and hunting groups. The umbrella organization encourages humane treatment of animals used for food, clothing, biomedical research, entertainment and sport while at the same time strongly supporting Pennsylvanians' right to the continued, responsible use of animals.

The coalition also provides factual information to the public, the media, elected officials and those responsible for the care of animals so they can have a better understanding of proper care standards.

Last year over 85,000 pounds of donated deer meat reached the plates of the state's needy families and individuals.

In the 1995 hunting season, PRUA hopes to see an expansion of the project and make 100,000 pounds of venison available for distribution.

PRUA has received support from Safari Clubs International and the Pennsylvania Deer Association along with promotional assistance from the Pennsylvania Game Commission and the Department of Agriculture.

Conservation groups, hunting clubs and interested individuals are encouraged to give their extra deer meat to the needy through this service project. Individual contributions can range from a few pounds of ground meat or steaks to an entire deer.

Last year, nearly 174,000 people benefited from hunters' generosity, but with 7 million pounds of venison harvested across the state, PRUA aims to expand the number of donations this year.

Food banks say they never have enough meat products to fill the need, so hunters with extra venison or the desire to share their good fortune can easily become involved in the "Hunters Sharing the Harvest." They are encouraged to contact their local game processor or butcher or local or regional food bank and make arrangements to donate venison.

SRBC Extends Drought Warning 30 Days

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—The Susquehanna River Basin Commission (SRBC) today voted to lift basinwide drought warning, effective in 30 days (Dec. 16), provided that hydrologic conditions continue to improve. The basinwide drought warning, which calls for voluntary water conservation measures, has been in effect since Sept. 14, 1995.

"With the above average rainfall amounts in Oct. and now the snowfall, we are seeing stream flows returning to normal levels in most portions of the basin," said Paul Swartz, SRBC's Executive Director.

"In fact, stream flow data from many stream pages are showing that flows are now actually above normal for this time of the year. We also expect ground water levels to begin recovering, if recent preciptation patterns continue."

The Susquehanna River Basin Commission is the governing agency established under a 100-year compact signed on Dec. 24, 1970 by the federal government and the states of New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland to protect and wisely manage the water resources of the Susquehanna River basin. The Susquehanna river starts in Cooperstown, N.Y. and flows 444 miles to Havre de Grace, Md., where the river meets the Chesapeake Bay.

The innovative "Hunters Sharing the Harvest" project was initiated in 1991 by PRUA. Its first-year success attracted the attention of United States Tobacco Company, which has supported the program since that time.

"With this support, we have been able to tell more hunters about the program," said PRUA Executive Vice President Kenneth Brandt of Elizabethtown.

For the second year, billboards advertising the project have been strategically placed on major roads to remind successful hunters to share their venison. Penn Advertising, York, supported the program by donating outdoor advertising space.

Readers can get more information about "Hunters Sharing the Harvest" or PRUA membership and activities by writing to PRUA Executive Vice President Kenneth Brandt, P.O. Box 61, Elizabethtown.

Gabel Elected Chairman Of Beef Council

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Bob Gabel, a Perry County dairy farmer and Beef Council Director since 1990, was elected Chairman of the 21-member board at their annual reorganization/planning meeting. Gabel had previously served as treasurer of the council, and was originally nominated to serve by Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative. Gabel replaces past chairman and cattle feeder Wayne Hoffman, of York County, whose term had expired.

Bill McCoy, a Lancaster County beef producer and current president of the Lancaster Stockyards, was elected vice chairman. In addition to his beef council involvement, McCoy also serves as a director for the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, and recently served as the beef council secretary.

Dennis Snyder, a Potter County veal producer, was elected beef council treasurer. A Director since 1992, Snyder has previously served as the beef council's vice chairman.

Lowell Wilson, a Centre County beef producer and a faculty member of Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Sciences, was elected secretary. Wilson serves on the Beef Council as a representative of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association.

In addition to electing officers, the board approved the council's $1.2 million budget. Highlights of the budget's marketing program include an extensive partnership with McCormick's QuickClassic meal sauces, a beef sandwich promotion with Sheetz Convenience Stores, an extensive veal promotion in Philadelphia. More than 80 percent of the beef council's in-state marketing budget is devoted to promotional programs.

"With the current large meat supplies, staff and the Board have placed our program emphasis on promotional programs designed to move additional tonnage, versus longer-term educational programs," says Dave Ivan, PBC Executive Director. "We feel it is crucial, particularly in critical time periods such as the summer months, that checkoff dollars are helping move product through the system."

Other marketing programs approved include extensive in-store retail demonstrations, school foodservice programs and a consumer recipe hotline.

The Pennsylvania Beef Council is the producer-controlled organization responsible for administering the $1 per head beef checkoff program within Pennsylvania.

Ephrata Farmers Meet

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.)—The Ephrata Area Young Farmers monthly meeting was held on Nov. 9 here at the Earl G. Martin Farm.

George Greaser, senior research associate in agricultural economics at Penn State, gave valuable information on alternate farming. The changes in ethnic and cultural situations need to be assessed in order to meet different demands in the market place today.

Items discussed were possoms, snails, turtles, aquaculture, buffalo, elk, deer, ostrich, emu, horse, peacocks, guineas and dairy. Various literature was also given for perusal for each farmer.

Dr. Greaser stated the most important selling point now is health in food.

The matching of FFA students with mentors had to be postponed, but will be activated as soon as it can be arranged.

The next meeting will be the annual Christmas celebration at the Ephrata High School Auditorium on Dec. 19 at 7:30 p.m.

Adams County Honors Lobaugh

JOANNE E. MORVAY
Adams Co. Correspondent

CENTENNIAL (Adams Co.) — The Adams County Holstein Association honored Adam Lobaugh of near Tyrone for more than three decades of service to the county and state dairy industry.

About 75 people attended the association's annual banquet and were on hand as Lobaugh received a plaque for his many contributions.

Lobaugh, who retired in April, had been farming since 1949. He owns 80 acres near Tyrone and rented an additional 40 acres. Lobaugh milked 40 registered Holsteins until 1993. He raised 45 calves and heifers until this past spring.

His "Ad-Lo" prefix is well known in Pennsylvania dairying, said Holstein Club president Kevin Holtzinger.

Lobaugh, 73, remains "one of the movers and shakers of our county," Holtzinger said. "He always showed up when there was work to be done and stayed until it was finished."

Lobaugh has served on the board of directors for the Adams County Extension Service, the Farmers Home Administration, the county's Dairy Herd Improvement Association, and the Adams County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, now known as the county Farm Service Agency.

He is a past president of the Adams County Young Farmers and the Adams County Holstein Association.

Holtzinger said Lobaugh was "noted for his ability to raise funds for worthy causes." He said that Lobaugh has been the association's champion cheese seller for years. The proceeds of the annual cheese sale are used to fund association activities.

Lobaugh was presented with a plaque honoring his accomplishments and a dinner gift certificate to enjoy with his wife Ruth. The couple, married since 1946, have two children and four grandchildren.

Lobaugh said he was "very pleased" by the honor and kind remarks.

In other business, the association elected new directors. Dean Lobaugh, Donald Rose and Rose Wenger were elected to two-year terms. Alan Zepp will serve a one-year term. Guy Kehr, Adam Lobaugh and Dan Waybright went off the board.

Adams County Dairy Princess Julie Zepp and Alternate Princess Joy Hess attended the banquet. The duo have done 47 dairy promotions since July. Zepp gave her speech "Milk, the Drink You Never Outgrow" at the banquet. Hess was lauded for her performance at the state 4-H and FFA dairy judging contests. She was high individual in both contests and placed third at the All American in Harrisburg. Hess was second in oral reasons at Harrisburg, missing first place by one point.

The association also applauded the efforts of Chris and Steve Wood of Penn Gate Farm in Littlestown. The Woods have been named progressive young breeders and premier exhibitor and breeder at the Pennsylvania Fall Championship show and had the first, second, and third place winners in the Pennsylvania Holstein Futurity.

County extension director Thomas E. Piper showed a "year in review" slide show, bringing back memories of the association's many activities over the past year. Pictured events included the DHIA awards banquet, a teleconference on dairy nutrition, the association's dairy tour in York and Lancaster counties, a twilight meeting this summer, and the recent Farm-City Day celebration at Getty Acres.

In final business, Chris Wood announced that junior members aged 6 to 21 are welcome for a night of dairy bowl games and other activities on Nov. 14 at 7 p.m. at the county extension office.

PDA Reports On Trade Visit

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A delegation of state Agriculture Department officials and state legislators conducted a recent trade visit to the Mexican states of Hidalgo and Veracruz to expand markets for Pennsylvania-made or grown products.

"Mexico is the largest importer of Pennsylvania's agricultural products," Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius said. "Through Gov. Ridge's Keystone Export Strategy, we will strengthen the trade relationship with sister states in other nations, such as Hidalgo and Veracruz."

The state of Hidalgo is located in central Mexico, and Veracruz is a coastal state on the Gulf of Mexico. Principal agricultural products of the two states include beef and dairy cattle, citrus fruits and vegetables.

The delegation included Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Roger A. Madigan, Sens. Raphael J. Musto and Patrick J. Stapleton, Reps. Arthur D. Hershey and Paul W. Semmel, Bureau of Market Development Director Ana Maria DiStefano, Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board Executive Secretary Frank O. DeGarcia, and several staff members of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

The Pennsylvania delegation was invited to Mexico by the governors of Hidalgo and Veracruz.

As a result of the visit, the state delegation established direct means of communication with the two Mexican states and the Mexican federal government, developed a framework for an agricultural-student exchange program and arranged for the purchase of dairy cattle from Pennsylvania.

In addition, the delegation arranged for the purchase of cattle and poultry feed from Pennsylvania farmers, considered the use of the Veracruz port of Tuxpan as a sister port to Philadelphia and discussed issues regarding the export of Pennsylvania-grown apples and Christmas trees.

Mexican elected and appointed officials have visited Pennsylvania twice during 1995. In March, they met with Gov. Ridge and Secretary Brosius.

Due to the interest shown by the Ridge Administration and the General Assembly, Mexican officials have proposed two trade visits. After this first visit by the Pennsylvania delegation, a second trip will be scheduled in February.

Federated Genetics, CRI Study Joint Programs

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—The board presidents and senior management of Federated Genetics and Cooperative Resources International have agreed to study alternatives that would further strengthen the product development, marketing, and internal operations of the cattle breeding group.

Cooperatives represented in the study include Atlantic Breeders, Lancaster; Eastern AI, Ithaca, NY; Louisiana Animal Breeders, Baton Rouge, LA; NOBA, Tiffin, OH; and 21st Century Genetics, Shawano, WI.

Federated's long-range planning committee points out that this study is being carried out concurrently with the completion of their own merger plan which is developing between Atlantic, Eastern, and Louisiana.

In authorizing the study, leaders of the five AI cooperatives established two primary objectives: 1) any change in relationships must maintain a governing structure that allows the principles of cooperative enterprise—farmer ownership and control, member representation, and equity distribution—to function; and 2) the review will examine current operations and determine if efficiencies and product quality can be enhanced through a closer working relationship.

The most recent audit of each organization shows that the five cooperatives have $47 million in assets, $73 million in sales, and net worth at 76% of total assets. Last year they served nearly 45,000 members. Together, they own more than 2,000 sires housed at nine locations.

These cocperatives currently have a supply agreement that provides a complete exchange of each other's genetic products throughout the United States. Their beef and color dairy breeds genetic development programs are fully integrated.

Holstein Association Changes Trait

BRATTLEBORO, Vt.— Holstein Association USA has changed the linear trait "Thurl Width," replacing it with "Rump Width."

This is defined as the inside measurement between the pin bones.

According to John Connor, director of type evaluations at the Association, making this change assures the Association's commitment to the harmonization of linear traits being recognized by the World Holstein Friesian Association.

"We also feel that the pin bones are easier for classifiers to focus on, compared to thurls, which should result in more uniformity when evaluating this trait," Connor said.

The accompanying scale will be used when evaluating this trait. The implementation date for this change was Oct. 1.

Linear Scale for Rump Width

NEW ZEALAND MILKING PARLORS

Stephen B. Spencer
Professor Emeritus
Dairy Science
Penn State University

The subject of the New Zealand milking parlor is being debated. Generally, these parlors are considered low-cost facilities compared to the more expensive types in the United States. Let's examine some of the differences and compare the costs.

First of all, just what is a New Zealand parlor? Didn't the designs in the U.S. come from New Zealand? The answer to the latter question is "yes," but with some modifications along the way.

The New Zealand parlor does have some different characteristics than those in the U.S., for some obvious and not so obvious reasons. First and foremost there is a difference in climate. The climate is very moderate in New Zealand and the temperature seldom gets below freezing. Thus, New Zealand parlors do not have outside walls or heating/cooling systems. There is no insulation in the ceiling and construction is often steel pipe supports for galvanized roofing material.

In addition, the climate in New Zealand is conducive to growing grass. There is not much argument that grass pastures provide a low-cost feeding system. In the U.S., the weather is more variable. In the northern dairy areas, winters are cold and the summers sometimes hot and dry.

In the major dairy areas of southwest U.S., most dairy animals have never seen a blade of grass in their lifetime. In short, the majority of the U.S. is on a stored or processed feeding system, although this has changed in recent years as pasture use has increased.

The second major difference between the U.S. and New Zealand is markets. New Zealand has about 3 million people and 2.5 million cows. Thus, they produce milk for the world market at a lower price. Lower pricing forces the dairy farmer to economize in every possible manner. Most U.S. dairy farmers would argue that margins are low to nonexistent in the U.S. That may be true today, but it has not always been. Contrast this to the U.S., which has less than 10 million cows and more than 260 million people.

The combination of markets and climate lends itself to seasonal dairy farming in New Zealand. Most herds calve their cows in the spring and dry them off in the winter when feed supplies are short. This also relates to the type of construction in milking parlors since with seasonal calving, the parlors are not operated during the winter months when the weather is cool. (Remember that the seasons in New Zealand are just the opposite of those in the U.S.)

Milking Parlor

Back to the milking parlor. We have mentioned a major construction difference between milking parlors in New Zealand and the U.S. Milking parlors in the southern climates could do without walls, but usually have them anyway. In some of those areas, the walls may be there because of wind. This can be a problem, especially in dry, sandy conditions.

The next area of difference between the U.S. and New Zealand parlors is the milking system. Typically, the New Zealand parlor is of the herringbone type and has the milking units mounted in the center. Generally, these are referred to as "swinging" units, that is, they are swung from one side of the parlor to the other side. Thus, there is one milking unit to every two stalls. Milking parlors in the U.S. were like this until the 1960s. Prior to the 1960s, many milking parlors that had been built were too small so there was an attempt to speed up the cow throughput. While doubling the number of units only increases cow throughput by 15 to 20 percent, the investment in units and a slightly larger vacuum pump is a one-time investment. In terms of vacuum supply, many U.S. parlors are far oversized while many New Zealand systems are marginal in this respect. This also accounts for a cost difference.

Additionally, there was a desire for low pipelines in the U.S. since high lines were thought to be associated with mastitis because of greater vacuum fluctuation. This is still not documented by controlled research, but the idea persists. It is very inconvenient to milk in a parlor and have to move the milk hose from side to side and to milk into a low line. This fact is documented and installing a low line to minimize the risk of rancid milk has merit.

Another interesting sidelight is that it appears that cows fed stored feed may have a tendency for their milk to be more susceptible to rancidity development than the milk from cows on grass. We have noted many times that a rancid milk problem disappears when cows are turned out to grass in the U.S.

In summary, the following advantages of New Zealand type and U.S. types of milking parlors are as follows:

Advantages of a New Zealand-style parlor:

1. Installing one unit per two stalls reduces the cost of the milking system.
2. Omission of ancillary equipment such as power gates, detachers, and meters makes a milking parlor more affordable.
3. Climate affords the opportunity to have a less expensive building.
4. Seasonal calving reduces milking time variability and milking times are shorter and more consistent.

Advantages of a U.S.-style parlor:

1. A milking unit per stall increases cow throughtput by 15-20 percent. This is a one-time cost and this additional cost is not excessive since the basic expensive equipment is already in place.
2. A unit per stall permits the installation of a lowline pipeline. Thus, vacuum is more stable and the risk of rancid milk is reduced.
3. A unit at each stall permits the immediate placement of a unit on a slow milking cow which otherwise may hold up the entire group of cows in the herringbone stalls.
4. Construction methods permit the year-round use of the milking parlor.

In the building of a milking parlor, there are many decisions to make. Choosing the proper equipment for the individual needs is paramount. Choosing some features of a New Zealand parlor is another choice in the shopping basket.

Gavel Bang Marks End Of Era

Granddaughter Tammy Ebert (left) and her children, Jackie, Jessie (front), and Jeff, or Hawley, (Poconos area) with Minnie and Chester. The family is quite proud of Chester and his accomplishments. Tammy affectionately told her grandfather that she passed an auction last week and she just had to go in to check out the auctioneer. She told Chester that the auctioneer "sang," but added "not as good as you pappy!"

LORETTA GOLDEN
Cambria Co. Correspondent

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — The final banging of the gavel at the 1995 Cambria County Fair 4-H Livestock Auction marked the end of an era in Cambria County.

Chester Davis, 79-year-old veteran auctioneer, received a standing ovation from fair-goers when it was announced that he had called his last 4-H auction.

Davis had been a fixture at the fair for the past 53 years. During this time, he had managed and called the auction, on a volunteer basis, selling thousands of dollars worth of livestock raised by 4-H'ers of the area. Davis, a former 4-H member himself, showed steers at the fair as a youth. In 1932, at the age of 16, he was the top individual livestock judge. That same year Davis, along with two other judges, represented Pennsylvania in national competition in Chicago.

Besides performing the auctioneering duties at the fair, Davis has made a career of his salesmanship ability. He has spent more than 60 years in the auction business. At the beginning of his career he primarily dealt with auto auctions, travelling each week to Buffalo, N.Y. Other places to which he travelled on a fairly regular basis were Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Lancaster, Maryland, and occasionally to Louisville, Kentucky.

Davis estimates that he travelled as many as 60,000 miles per year. He was a licensed pilot and when the weather permitted, flying was his transportation of choice. Many times he took off and landed in farmers' fields. Other times he would take the train, but if his family went with him, they travelled by motorhome.

Chester was born and raised on a farm between Ebensburg and Colver in Cambria County. Orphaned at age 5, he was raised by an uncle and helped out on the uncle's farm. It was here that Davis practiced his auctioneering "singing" skills. In the early 1930s, Davis learned his trade from John Bloom, area auctioneer, at the horse sales. Davis would then go home and practice his famous "singing" inside of a silo — because of the "echo" effect that it had. He also practiced "yelling" while riding his pony on the farm so that he could tell what his voice sounded like "on the move."

As a young man, Chester performed the auctioneering honors at area grange socials — with customers bidding on cakes, pies, and box lunches made by the young women members. It was at the Grange that Chester met his wife Minnie. During 58 years of marriage, Chester and Minnie reared two children: Nancy, of Lancaster, and Benny, of Ebensburg, who is also an auctioneer. They are also blessed with five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

In 1948, Davis built a small auction barn along Route 22, outside of Ebensburg. Over the years he constructed additions to the original structure as needed, and conducted a thriving business there for approximately 40 years. When asked how he became so well known in this part of the country, Davis explained that because Route 22 is a major artery across the state, thousands of cars passed by his auction barn each day. His sales were frequented by travelers who heard his auctioneering "song" on the highway over the loudspeakers. Travelers would stop at the auction for an hour or two, if for nothing else, a place to stretch their legs and get a quick bite to eat. Minnie operated a concession stand there and would sell quite a bit of food and homemade pastries each week.

The auction barn was primarily a place for merchandise sales. Each sale was well attended — approximately 500 persons came each week. These numbers attested to Davis' notoriety as a premier auctioneer in the state. He sold anything from dressed chickens and crates of local produce, to new furniture direct from a factory in Tennessee, clothing, antiques, and items from estates.

Thanksgiving Day was his "biggest" day of the year because of the upcoming Christmas season. This was the time of year that toys and candy were in great demand. He wistfully remembers that in the beginning and for a number of years afterward, the items brought to auction were good quality American-made items.

Over the years he has sold tons of candy and feels that translated into dollars it would be close to $1,000,000 worth. Buyers were individuals as well as those from large and small "mom and pop" grocery stores.

The auction barn also served another purpose. It provided an outlet for people to bring unwanted or unneeded items and make a few dollars. Reflecting on his 60 years in the business, Davis says that prices at auctions today are typically higher than they have been at any time in history.

Immediately after the war, Davis remembers that the grand champion steer at the fair brought a price of $0.50 per pound. In more recent years he has auctioned grand champions for anywhere from $3.50 to $8.00 per pound. This pricing is somewhat dependent on current trends and also the Chicago livestock market.

Reminiscing a bit, Davis mentioned that he handled the estate auction for Grace Kelly's father's house in the Philadelphia area many years ago. This was probably his most "famous" consignor. He and Minnie don't recall too much about that sale except that Minnie remembers that she was impressed because the house itself had white carpeting throughout.

Speaking of local farm and equipment sales, Chester can't recall how many of these he handled but knows that there were quite a few. It is estimated that at one time or another, Davis handled the sales of machinery, livestock, or land at approximately 50 percent of the farms in Cambria County.

At the beginning of the tractor era in farming, he recalls auctioning quite a bit of equipment which was dependent on horses. Because Cambria County is a potato farming area, Davis has more recently handled a lot of potato equipment.

His advice to farmers who are readying equipment for sale is "don't paint your farm equipment unless it is done professionally." His reasoning for this is that when not done properly, it looks as though the farmer is trying to hide cracks or flaws in the machinery. This may make potential buyers shy away from it and not bring as good a price as the farmer hoped for.

Chester and Minnie are enjoying their time together. Minnie admits that she thoroughly enjoys not having any schedule. They merely do as they wish. This includes taking day trips, doing yard work, spending time with family and their new St. Bernard puppy, "Sam," and helping out with a few farm chores at Benny's farm.

This past week Chester was the honored guest at the local Extension Office Annual Dinner and meeting. He was presented with a plaque in appreciation for his more than 50 years as a "Friend of 4-H." Chester was deeply touched that so many friends and family turned out to honor him, including a granddaughter from Florida and a graddaughter and great-grandchildren from the eastern part of Pennsylvania.

Retirement for Chester Davis is not retirement from everything. He says that he'll still do an occasional sale here and there but the livestock auction at the fair will now be handled by his son Benny and partner Wayne Templeton. With a twinkle in his eye, he adds that he'll probably be there to lend them a hand and he's looking forward to it!

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

How many doors do we pass through in a day, in a lifetime?

It has been four years since we built a log house for ourselves in a corner of the meadow. But, I'm still not accustomed to the open area plan of our house. The television can be heard in every corner. Our 1813 farmhouse had a door to each room but here only the bedrooms and bathrooms have doors.

Talking about doors, there was a room in the large farmhouse, where I was born, that had nine doors in one room. This room was used as a kitchen for many years. It was also our livingroom as other rooms were closed off during cold weather. Three doors led to two porches and three doors led to three stairways — two up and one down. One was a pantry door and two others led to different rooms.

There are other kinds of doors in our lives that we must close when a relative or friend dies. Closing doors can be difficult and painful. When our oldest child went to New York state to college, I was quite upset. It was several weeks before I felt like going in her room to clean it. It seemed to me as though we had broken the family circle. It was a lonely door to close. Sometimes we must close doors and not live in the past.

Other times, we can open doors and find exciting adventures. When you take a gift to a neighbor, a door of friendship is opened. And, when you get good news from a doctor, a door to a happy life is opened.

One never knows how many doors are left for one to pass through. We must put our trust in the Lord.

Let's have an old-fashioned Thanksgiving!

Turkey and stuffing. Mashed potatoes and gravy. Sweet potatoes. Creamed parsnips. Baked dried corn. Fresh bread and butter, strawberry jam and apple butter. Pumpkin and mince pie.

You are having that? But wait—for a REAL "old-fashioned" Thanksgiving dinner, you can't run to the supermarket for those fixin's. Old-fashioned meant do-it-yourself. From scratch.

And speaking of scratch, which turkey will you have? The big, mean gobbler stalking the barnyard whose throat you threatened to cut the last time he came hissing at you with those wide tail feathers spread? Or one of the more gentle hens who roots in your flower bed? Whichever you choose, those tiny, black pinfeathers will be a real pain to get picked out so that the skin is clean and appealing looking.

Those from-scratch turkeys do not come with pop-up cooking timers, by the way.

Now, about the stuffing. You'll have to bake the bread a day or two ahead and cube it. Make sure your hens are laying enough eggs that you have plenty on hand for the stuffing.

And the potatoes? Do you have enough stored in your root cellar? Sure, they may have some scab marks and some of them are pretty small, but that's the way potatoes are sometimes when you grow your own. Of course, if your weather wasn't suitable, you probably don't have many potatoes put away for the rest of year.

Same with sweet potatoes. They're even more finicky about weather than white potatoes. Check the warm, dry corner of the basement and see if they're in good shape.

The dried corn will have to be soaked ahead and left to cook for awhile to get properly soft. It's tedious to cut off the cob and dry during the humid summer months when corn is fresh. And it has to be dried and stored properly, or it will turn into a glob of mold. But for "old-fashioned," it's dried corn—or no corn.

(Just forget cranberries—unless you lived in the coastal bogs of New England where they grew wild. Forget the creamed parsnips. Period.)

About the butter. Start skimming and saving cream from your twice-daily milkings several days ahead. It needs to be room temperature before it goes into your hand-cranked churn. A good job for keeping the kids occupied for an hour or so.

The jam was cooked and thickened on the woodstove during those hot days last June from strawberries you grew. And the applebutter is freshly made from your apple trees' abundant yields and the cider you pressed from the drops. It took two days of stirring it over an open kettle, but it's one of the few sweets you'll have left, come spring.

Since it was a spotty pumpkin crop, you may have pumpkins for pies—or you may not. If you do, you'll have to chop and cook them, strain the pulp and then start your baking. Squeeze those hens for a few more eggs.

Or, you might just settle for apple pies, or mince, if you have mincemeat left. You did make mincemeat when you butchered your year's supply of beef last winter, didn't you? Canned mincemeat is another way to preserve meat—besides smoking and drying.

Make sure there's enough flour in the bin. Or have your Farmer take some wheat to the mill to have some freshly ground. And hope the wheat hasn't gotten too buggy in storage at the barn since the July harvest.

Let's have an old-fashioned Thanksgiving!

On second thought, let's not.

Let's just give thanks that we have such an abundance to be thankful for. And that we can just buy it, thaw it, open it, microwave it and enjoy it.

Thanksgiving Dinner

So it's your turn to host the annual Thanksgiving feast for the entire family. Can you tackle a turkey without being traumatized?

Believe it or not, taking care of Tom isn't that tough. Here are some basic Turkey 'Fundamentals' provided by the USDA's Meat and Poultry Hotline in response to basic questions asked by consumers.

• Plan on about one pound per person or 1½ pounds per person if you have hearty eaters or want ample leftovers.

• The quality and taste of frozen and fresh turkey are quite similar, the keeping time is not. A frozen turkey can be purchased months in advance, a fresh bird should be bought only one to two days ahead.

• There are basically two types of raw birds to choose from: a prebasted bird (typical ingredients include vegetable oil, broth, and spices) or an unbasted bird to which nothing has been added. USDA Grade A is the highest quality grade for poultry and the one commonly found in stores.

• Is a tom better than a hen? Age, not gender, is the determining factor for tenderness. All turkeys in the market are young, usually 4-6 months old. A hen generally weighs less than 16 pounds and a tom is usually over 16 pounds.

• It's best to defrost your turkey in the refrigerator. The rule of thumb is a minimum of 24 hours of defrost time for every 5 pounds of turkey. Thus, it can take 4-5 days to defrost a 20-pound turkey. A completely thawed bird will last an additional 1 to 2 days in the refrigerator once defrosted. If you need to speed up defrost time, it is safe to defrost the bird in a large utility sink of cold water. Submerge the wrapped bird in the water and change the water every 30 minutes to make sure it stays cold. Allow 30 minutes per pound to defrost this way.

• To roast a turkey, allow 15-18 minutes per pound for an unstuffed bird, and 18-24 minutes per pound for a stuffed bird. Have your oven preheated to 325 degrees. USDA highly recommends using a meat thermometer to determine doneness. A whole turkey is done when the temperature reaches 180 degrees in the inner thigh. A breast is done at 170 degrees. The juices should run clear. Stuffing temperature should reach at least 165 degrees.

GRANDMA RUTT'S POTATO FILLING

5 pounds potatoes
1 large loaf bread
6 eggs
2 cups chopped celery
1 cup chopped onion
¼ pound butter
1 tablespoon parsley
5 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 quart milk
¼ teaspoon yellow food coloring

Peel, cook, and mash the potatoes. Simmer the celery and onion together with the butter until soft. Tear the bread into pieces and mix all the ingredients together. Put in a buttered dish or pan, and bake for one hour at 350 degrees.

Grandma often makes this delicious recipe for Christmas and Thanksgiving family gatherings. One of her hints is to use day-old bread or allow fresh bread to air dry overnight.

CRANBERRY JELL-O SALAD

24 ounces cranberries
3 small packages of strawberry Jell-O
3 cups boiling water
3 cups cold water
4 or 5 apples, peeled
4 or 5 oranges, peeled
1½ pounds sugar

Grind cranberries, apples, and oranges. Dissolve Jell-O in 3 cups boiling water. Add cold water to Jell-O. Stir in the ground fruit and sugar. Chill until soft set.

Traditional Thanksgiving dinners always include pumpkin pie and plenty of other baked desserts and specialty breads.

HARVEST TIME CRANBERRY BREAD

3 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¾ cup sugar
⅓ cup butter, softened
1 egg
1 cup milk
1½ cups cranberries, coarsely chopped
1 cup chopped walnuts, if desired

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine flour, baking soda, and cinnamon; set aside. Cream sugar and butter in large mixer bowl until light and fluffy. Add egg; blend well. Add flour mixture alternately with milk to butter mixture, blending thoroughly after each addition. Fold in cranberries and nuts. Pour batter into buttered loaf pan. Bake one hour or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool bread in pan on wire rack 10 minutes. Remove from pan. Transfer to wire rack; cool completely.

Looking for something spectacular to serve your holiday guests? Try this Amazing Banana Nut Roll recipe from Alletta Schadler, Lebanon County extension director.

The nut roll is astounding. Bake the filling and the cake together in one step, then roll it up.

Schadler shared this recipe and many baking tips at the holiday program held last week. Some of these must-know hints will appear in this week's paper and in succeeding issues.

AMAZING BANANA NUT ROLL

8 ounces cream cheese, softened
3 ounces cream cheese, softened
½ cup granulated sugar
1 egg
3 tablespoons milk
½ cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
4 egg yolks
½ teaspoon vanilla
⅓ cup granulated sugar
1 large banana, mashed
½ cup finely chopped walnuts or pecans
4 egg whites
½ cup granulated sugar
Powdered sugar
Cream cheese frosting
Chocolate-flavor syrup (optional)

Lightly grease a 15x10x1-inch baking pan. Line bottom with lightweight aluminum foil or wax paper; grease paper. Set aside.

For filling, combine cream cheese and ½ cup sugar in a small mixing bowl; beat with an electric mixer on medium speed until smooth. Add whole egg and milk; beat until combined. Spread in the prepared pan; set aside.

For cake, stir together flour, baking powder, and baking soda in a medium mixing bowl; set aside. Beat egg yolks and vanilla in a small mixing bowl with an electric mixer on medium speed about 5 minutes or until thick and lemon colored. Gradually add the ⅓ cup sugar, beating until sugar is dissolved. Stir in banana and nuts.

Thoroughly wash the beaters. Beat egg whites in a large mixing bowl on medium speed until soft peaks form (tips curl). Gradually add ½ cup sugar, beating on high speed until stiff peaks form (tips stand straight). Fold egg yolk mixture into egg whites. Sprinkle flour mixture evenly over egg mixture; fold in just till combined.

Carefully spread the batter evenly over the filling in the pan. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until cake springs back when lightly touched.

Immediately loosen the cake from sides of pan and turn onto a towel sprinkled with powdered sugar. Carefully peel off paper. Starting with a narrow end, roll up cake using towel as a guide. (Do not roll towel into cake). Cool completely on a wire rack.

Cream Cheese Frosting:

Combine half of a 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened, and ½ teaspoon vanilla in a small mixing bowl; beat with an electric mixer on medium speed until light and fluffy. Gradually beat in one cup unsifted powdered sugar. Beat in enough milk (1 to 2 tablespoons) to make a spreadable frosting. Makes about ½ cup.

Bring More Color to Winter

You can pot paperwhites at Thanksgiving, and still have blooms in time for Christmas. Start forcing bulbs now to extend color into the holidays. All you will need are bulbs, clay or plastic pans or pots, potting soil and small stones for drainage. You will also need a cool spot where the bulbs must rest for a period, while they develop their root system.

For tulips, use a 5-inch pot to hold three bulbs; for hyacinths, a 5-inch pot to hold three to four bulbs; for daffodils, a 7- to 8-inch pot to hold three to four bulbs; and for crocus, a 4-inch pot to hold six to seven bulbs.

Put a small amount of drainage matter in the drainage holes of the pot. Add enough potting medium to allow the bulbs to rest. For tulips, bulb tops just above the soil line, put the flat side of the bulbs toward the pot side. Top daffodil bulbs even with pot rim. Hyacinth bulbs can be topped just above potting medium. For crocus, bulbs can be about one-inch below the medium. Add potting soil around (and over) the bulbs and lightly press until it is ½ inch below the pot rim. Water slowly until water begins to seep out the drainage hole.

Next, put the bulbs in cold storage. Most bulbs require two months of storage. Paperwhite narcissus, though, should be forced immediately after potting. When you bring the bulbs out of storage, put them in a sunny but cold window. The cooler the better. Excessive heat will make the blooms come on too fast. A cool locale will keep your bulbs at their best longer.

More Fall Chores

Don't put that trowel and rake away yet. There's still plenty to do to prepare for next year. If any perennials have been seriously and routinely plagued with disease, this is the time to rogue them.

Rake leaves and put them in the compost. Rake often enough and completely enough that leaves can't mat down and damage the covered grass. Give the garden a final weeding. If the weed has seed in it, keep in mind that the compost, over the winter, may not get hot enough to kill all the seeds.

Remove all spent or frost-killed vegetables and annuals. Cut back tops of non-woody perennials and put in the compost.

Container plants should be pulled out of the container when they have been frost killed. The soil can be kept for next year, however. Simply cover it with plastic to keep out debris and to keep it from getting water-logged over winter.

Dig up tender bulbs such as gladioli before the soil freezes. Dry them, and store over winter in a cool but frost-free area.

Young evergreens can be protected from snow and ice damage by tying together upper branches that might spread and break during periods of heavy snow building. If evergreens are exposed to severe wind or road salt spray, a staked burlap windbreak will provide further protection. Remember to continue watering evergreens through the fall if rainfall is below normal, to avoid winter stress and injury to them. A wood chip or compost mulch will provide further protection.

Secure the tender bark of newly planted trees and shrubs from foraging deer. Keep the area around the trees free of grass and weeds.

Boxwood, broad-leaved evergreens and other surface-rooted shrubs suffer less winter injury when a heavy mulch is placed around them after several good frosts just before the ground freezes. If planted in an exposed location, protect them against wind and sun damage by using burlap windbreaks.

Hill-up roses with 10-12 inches of soil over the base of the plant. This acts as a winter protection for the crown. Mulch should be applied after a freeze has occurred.

A light covering of salt hay or leaves scattered inside the cold frame over biennials and perennials gives an added protection from low temperatures. Remember to continue opening the frame on sunny days.

Propogate evergreen cuttings (yew, juniper, boxwood, holly and broad-leaved evergreens) through early December. Insert in a propogating bench or flat in the cool end of the greenhouse.

Hardwood cuttings of many kinds of deciduous trees and shrubs can be made the latter part of this month. Tie in bundles and bury in sand in a cold frame or outdoors. Remove from sand in early spring and plant in bed outdoors.

PUMPKIN PECAN PIE

3 slightly beaten eggs
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup canned pumpkin
½ cup dark corn syrup
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup pecans

Mix together all ingredients, adding pecans last. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes.

MY FAMILY'S FAVORITE PUMPKIN PIE

1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
1 cup warm milk

Cream sugar, egg yolks, and flour. Add pumpkin and other ingredients. Last add egg whites that have been beaten with a dash of salt. Mix and bake in an uncooked crust in 450 degree oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat and bake 30 minutes longer or until custard is set.

FAVORITE PIE DOUGH

1 tablespoon milk
¼ cup boiling water
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt

Place first three ingredients in a mixing bowl. Whip until fluffy.

Add flour and salt, beat until all dry ingredients are moistened. Divide dough in half and wrap in plastic wrap. Chill.

Remove dough and place between 2 12-inch long pieces of waxed paper. Roll out in a 12-inch circle.

Make 2 9-inch pastry shells or 2-crust pie.

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., would like to know where she can purchase flaked hominy. She had requested this some months ago. Someone sent an answer but when Louise checked it out the Merchant's Grocery Co. Inc. wrote that they stopped selling it 25 years ago.

QUESTION — B.W. Pue, Rocky Ridge, Md., would like directions for making realistic gingerbread people that are used in crafts. Some are puffy and others are thick and flat. How is the dough .made and colored and the features painted?

QUESTION — Dick Taylor, Allentown, N.J., would like a recipe for hot pepper sauce using lime juice and carrots as opposed to the traditional method of using vinegar and tomatoes. He writes that lime juice enhances the pepper flavor more than vinegar.

QUESTION — Dee Crowder, Gettysburg, is looking for a recipe similar to Rotel or Chi-Chi's Tomato and Green Chilies.

ANSWER — A reader whose family likes sour and pickled foods wanted recipes to can red or green bell peppers, preferably not whole. Thanks to Laurie Donaldson, New Park, for sending a recipe.

Canned Peppers

8 cups peppers (preferably mixture of green, yellow, orange, red)
8 cloves garlic
1½ cups sugar
¾ cup water
2 cups cider vinegar
1 teaspoon mustard seeds
½ teaspoon salt

Sterilize 4 one-pint jars, lids, etc. In saucepan, place sliced peppers (1-inch long and ¼ -inch thick) in enough water to cover. Heat to boiling and drain. Pack into jars. Place 2 cloves of garlic in each jar.

Heat vinegar, sugar, water, mustard seed, and salt to boiling. Pour over peppers ¼ -inch from top. Seal with lids and rings. Process in boiling water bath for 5 minutes.

ANSWER — Vivian M. Hillard, Narvon, wanted a recipe for hot cauliflower that is yellow in color but turmeric is not listed as an ingredient. Thanks to Laurie Donaldson, New Park, for the following recipe.

Tangy Pickled Cauliflower

12 cups califlower flowerets
4 cups white 5% vinegar
2 cups water
¼ cup sugar
2 cups sliced onions
1 cup diced red bell peppers
1 tablespoon pickling salt
1 tablespoon mustard seed
1 tablespoon mixed pickling spice
¼ teaspoon hot red pepper flakes

Blanch cauliflower in boiling water for 3 minutes. Cool on ice. Drain well. In 4-quart saucepan, combine remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil. In the meantime, fill hot jars with cauliflower, leaving ½ -inch headspace. Fill jars with hot mixture, leaving ½ -inch space at top. Remove trapped air bubbles with wooden untensil. Seal with lids and rings. Process in boiling water bath for 15 minutes. Makes about 8 pints.

OHIO'S FROST ON THE PUMPKIN PIE

Crust:
1¼ cups graham cracker crumbs
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon ground cloves
⅓ cup butter, melted

Filling:
1 can ready to spread vanilla frosting
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 cup canned pumpkin
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
8-ounces whipped cream topping

Heat oven to 350 degrees. In a bowl, combine all crust ingredients, reserving two tablespoons mixture for topping, press remaining mixture into bottom and up the sides of 9- or 10-inch pie pan, bake for 6 minutes. Remove and cool.

In a large bowl, combine all filling ingredients except whipped topping and beat for 2 minutes.

Turkeys, Rabbits, And Forgetful Habits

GAY BROWNLEE

Once upon a time there was a family who enjoyed raising a few turkeys. When the family picked them up at the post office, the turkeys were itty-bitty babies.

If the babies got cold, they would die, so the family kept them very warm and snug. The family placed a heat lamp above their cardboard pen. The warm babies slept a lot.

Then the family sprinkled fine mash for the babies to eat, and gave them water to drink. Night and day, the nice family watched over the helpless birds.

The family said, "These turkeys are like us. They need something to play with or they will get bored."

"I know the best thing," said the dad. "I'll put a tree limb in their pen. It will help them get exercise," he said.

"Good idea," said the mom.

"Way to go, Dad," said the son.

Indeed, the big branch was entertaining for the turkeys and they liked having it in their pen. They learned to fly up, and then, down again.

The friendly turkeys were interesting pets. Since they behaved and didn't stray off, the family allowed the two turkeys some freedom in the daytime. In the evening, they were put back in the pen. The family latched the pen door so it couldn't come open, accidentally, in the night.

The son was a very good son, but he had a bad habit. He sometimes forgot important things. Very often, his mom reminded him to do his chores. "Did you feed the rabbits?" she would ask before he rememberd to feed his bunnies.

The rabbit hutch was beside the family's house. In fact, it was below the window of the family's bathroom.

One autumn night it got pitch black outside. The happy family turned on the inside lights.

Dad was working in the garage. Mom was washing the dinner dishes. The son was doing his school homework.

Soon, the son needed to go to the bathroom. It was back the hall, away from the kitchen. He closed the door for privacy.

Suddenly, he felt creepy, like somebody was watching him. Chills shot up his back. Goose bumps popped out on his arms. He turned slowly and looked out the small window into the dark and eerie night.

Two scrawny faces were pressed to the glass and four beady eyes stared back at him.

"Yeeeooow!" bellowed the son. "Mom! Dad! Come here! I forgot to pen up the turkeys. They're roosting on the rabbit cage and looking in the bathroom window!"

"Well," said the mom, laughing, "I hope you're cured now of your forgetful habits."

"I hope so, too," agreed the dad, hearing the commotion.

"I hope so, too," said the son.

"Gobble, gobble, gobble," said the turkeys.

Yuletide In The Country

ROCHESTER, N.Y.—Share the merriment and tradition of the holiday season with your family as you step back in time for Yuletide in the Country: Tours Through Holidays Past, a special holiday event at Genesee Country Museum, December 1-3 and December 6-10.

Meet 19th century families preparing for and celebrating the holiday season. Experience the night before Christmas as you step into vivid scenes of the customs and traditions of long ago. Behold brilliant gatherings of ladies and gents! Join the feast and frolics of a 19th century social season.

Yuletide brings the holiday spirit of a 19th century village to life through Yuletide scenes and vignettes that acknowledge the contributions made by various nationalities to the evolution of America's holiday observances. Join the Hamilton family as they deck their parlor, Mrs. Eastman as she reads "Twas The Night Before Christmas," Mr. Foster's daughters as they prepare to receive their gentlemen callers on New Year's Day, and the Shakers as they gather for their Christmas meeting.

Two different personally guided tours are available: "Twas The Night Before Christmas" and "Yuletide Feasts and Frolics." Tour sizes are limited and reservations must be made in advance. Admission is $12 for adults, $10 for adult museum members, $8 for youth under age 18, and $7 for youth museum members under age 18.

As part of your Yuletide experience, you may also enjoy a savory buffet prepared by the gourmet chefs of Gateway Banquet Center on Friday and Saturday evenings only, 5:00 p.m.-9:00 p.m. Fee is $16 per adult and seating is limited. Dinner is not included with the cost of a Yuletide tour.

Catch up on your holiday shopping with a visit to the Flint Hill Store for its annual Yuletide Christmas Sale. You'll find something for everyone on your list including old-fashioned candles, collectibles, quilts, jewelry, handmade craft items, and more. The Flint Hill Store will be open from 5:00 p.m-10:00 p.m. weekdays, and 10:00 a.m.-10:00 p.m. weekends.

Wetzel Finds Purpose For Living

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — "Every one on this earth is here for some purpose, and this is mine," Jeff Wetzel said of his involvement with the National Grange.

On his own time, Wetzel crisscrosses the U.S., holding workshops, seminars, and conferences at community and regional granges. As the national youth director, he travels 120,000 miles in his work with 600-800 young Grange members from 10-14 years of age.

Although the Grange was founded in 1867 and has more than 300,000 members nationally, he finds many people are unfamiliar with the Grange or think that it is a secret organization.

According to Wetzel, the English word "grange" meant "community" or the "overseer property of the master."

Originally called the Patrons of Husbandry, it was the first farm organization in the U.S. The founders saw the need for broader education and self-development among farmers and the need to band together to put farming on par with other industries.

From the beginning, the Grange allowed women the right to vote and hold office within the organization. It was founded on family values and was a window of opportunity for the family.

"It's the one organization next to the church in which the whole family may participate."

Wetzel himself, he said, became a member when he was only 5 years old.

"My grandfather was a charter member and my parents have been members for more than 50 years," Wetzel said.

Wetzel rose through the ranks in leadership at the local, state, and national levels. He has extensive scrapbooks chronologically picturing that involvement. Almost every Grange honor possible has been bestowed on Wetzel.

His wife Cindy and he were chosen Pennsylvania Outstanding Young Grange Couple in 1986-87. The Wetzels then competed for the national title and were selected as the National Grange Young Couple of the Year.

In 1985, he was appointed State Junior Grange director. He organized eight new granges within a two year period, which resulted in him being named as the most outstanding junior director.

The Wetzels children, Allison, 20, and Jaimee, 18, often participate in grange activities with their parents. The family has won national placing for their musical vocals.

Public speaking is Wetzel's forte. "I'm a motivator. It's a God-given talent honed through my years with the Grange," Wetzel said.

Over the years, the Grange has adapted to changing times and the needs of the community.

Wetzel himself had the words "illegal drugs" inserted in the resolutions that young members make in abstaining from alcohol and harmful substances.

The Grange promotes deaf awareness and offers assistance, much as the Lion's Club is known for helping the blind.

Today, the Grange continues to be a strong lobbiest for farmers and owns an 11-story building that is six blocks from the White House.

"It's the only house in that area that isn't owned by the government," Wetzel said.

The opportunites available for children are much the same as 4-H. The difference is that Grange has activities for all ages so that family can participate together rather than being fragmented into going in separate directions.

"Anyone can join. They don't need to live on a farm," Wetzel said.

To spread knowledge of the Grange, Wetzel organized a poster contest open to all public school students. The winners and their parents were then invited to an awards banquet.

"Thirty five non-grange members attended and 10 of those became members," Wetzel reported.

"For many years, the Grange stressed too much fun and not enough education in their children's program," Wetzel said.

His philosophy is to stress education, and fun will come with it.

Five youth members who assist Wetzel are selected annually. They attend an orientation in Washington D.C. for one week. They are assigned, one at a time, to travel with Wetzel to promote the organization.

Wetzel and the youth representatives are not reimbursed for time, but travel expenses come from donations from the 4,000 Granges across the U.S.

It has been Wetzel's desire to give 100 percent in his responsibility as Grange youth director. "But I don't want to spread myself too thin. I could not do what I'm doing

Make 1995 A Holiday To Remember

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — For the do-it-yourselfer, it's time to work toward making 1995 a holiday to remember.

Recently, Berks County Extension held workshops for two days on creating gifts, decorations, and food for the holidays.

"You can give gifts that look nice but are not expensive," Rosanna Gelpi said.

As an international marketing consultant, Gelpi is familiar with products that are fairly new on the market.

One of the products that she recommends crafters to use is Verdigris and Granite. These can be used on new or old items to make them more attractive. A kit offers step-by-step instructions to transform wooden, cardboard, and other surfaces into a patina or granite look.

"You don't need to be an artist to use it or to turn items into attractive gifts," Gelpi said.

To help create special gifts from scraps of leftover wrapping paper and fabric, Gelpi used a product called HeatnBond. By following the manufacturer's directions, this product can be used to make quick placemats, tablecloths, utensil caddies, and aprons.

Greens, Berries, Pods

W. Eugene Burkhart Jr. created holiday decorations for the door, wall, table, and fireplace by using greens, berries, and pods. The easiest way for people to learn to make arrangements is to watch someone else make one and copy it. Another way is to study the photographs with this article and copy it.

For a table centerpiece, fasten soaked oasis in a shallow dish. Insert pieces of white pine, cedar, fir, and boxwood in a shape that resembles a Christmas tree when finished. Stagger three lotus pods on two sides of the arrangement and two more at the bottom sides of the arrange. Accent with holly.

For a vine wreath, Burkhart took a 20-inch vine wreath. Arrange and glue greens on the wreath. Wire desired color bow to the wreath. Glue lotus pods, sarracenia, and berries to the wreath in desired design.

A candleholder arrangment can be made by cutting Oasis to fit a candle adapter placed on a candlestick. Place candle in center of Oasis. Arrange a mixture of greens around the Oasis. Add berries and pine cones.

The hundreds of persons who attended the workshop also donated food to the Reading Emergency Shelter and gave money for Berks County Extension Homemakers Scholarships, which will be awarded in the spring.

(Turn to Page B17)

W. Eugene Burkhart Jr. made holiday decorating easy by using greens, berries, and pods in arrangements.

Rossana Gelpi-Houck suggests sponge painting a clay pot and filling it with napkins, placemats, and coasters made by using Heatnbond. Add a candle to complete the look.

By using Verdigris and granite, these items were transformed from plain cardboard, wood, or plastic to look like granite and marble pieces.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Executive Board

The bi-monthly meeting of the Berks County Farm Women Executive Board was held recently with 18 members in attendance. President Wendy Lingle opened the meeting.

Janet Schlegel of Group 6 had devotions. For roll call, members answered the question, "How will you celebrate Thanksgiving?"

State president Dorothy Strickler reported on her trips to six county conventions. The State Farm Women Convention will be held at the Harrisburg Forum on Jan. 8. The Spring Rally will be held at Seven Springs in Somerset County in May.

Beginning in Jan. 1996, the cost of the state cookbooks will increase to $20.

The next board meeting will be held on Jan. 11, in the conference room of the agricultural center."

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Society of Farm Women No. 8 met on November 8 at the home of Alice Walter in Elizabethtown. Shirley Trimmer gave devotions. Hostesses were Kathyrn Hess, Alice Walter, and Evelyn Dannemann. Cynthia Hollinger, director of volunteers at the Masonic Home in Elizabethtown, was guest speaker. She spoke of all the facilities available at the home. The December 13 meeting will be at the home of Venetta Wallander in Maytown.

Lititz Church To Host Eighth Fair

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — The Lititz Church of the Brethren will host the eighth annual Heifer Project International "Living Gift Fair" Nov. 25 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Held the day after "Black Friday," the biggest shopping day of the year, the fair provides conscientious Christmas shoppers with an alternative to the materialism of the holiday season.

Sponsored by HPI and staffed by an ecumenical group of more than 50 volunteers, the fair enables people to deal with two problems at once—holiday shopping and global hunger.

Shoppers purchase animals or shares of animals in the name of a friend. The friend receives an attractive HPI gift card. A family in need receives the HPI animal that is purchased. Colorfully decorated tables provide information about how the HPI animals benefit poor families in the United States and around the world.

Those wishing to take something home with them can choose from Discovery Toys, attractive HPI clothing and merchandise, arts and crafts and homemade baked goods. Homemade soups and sandwiches will be on sale for lunch.

Special events for children include an "arkful" of live animals from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., provided by Hammer Creek Exotic Animals, and shows on "Noah's Ark" at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. by Sky High Clowns from St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Spring Grove.

A non-profit Christian organization that works in partnership with 13 denominations to provide animals and related services, HPI was founded by Church of the Brethren layman Dan West, whose dream was to give "not a cup, but a cow" to provide families with a source of food rather than short-term relief.

Since a heifer named Faith sailed to Puerto Rico in 1944, HPI has supplied more than one million families in 110 countries with food and income-producing animals, along with training in animal husbandry; ecologically sound, sustainable farming; and community development.

Today HPI provides families in 31 countries with 20 different kinds of animals.

The Lititz Church of the Brethren is located at 300 W. Orange St., Lititz, directly across from Warwick High School.

The Morton Company, where Wetzel is employed full time, is understanding in allowing him to take time off to travel for the Grange.

Wetzel said that his employer told him that the country needs more people like Wetzel to promote young people.

No matter how busy he becomes or where he is traveling, Wetzel runs eight miles a day.

"I was pressured into it by my daughters," said Wetzel. "Now I love it."

Readers interested in joining the Grange or knowing more about it, should contact Wetzel, who will put them in touch with the Grange nearest their home. Call him at (610) 683-5381.

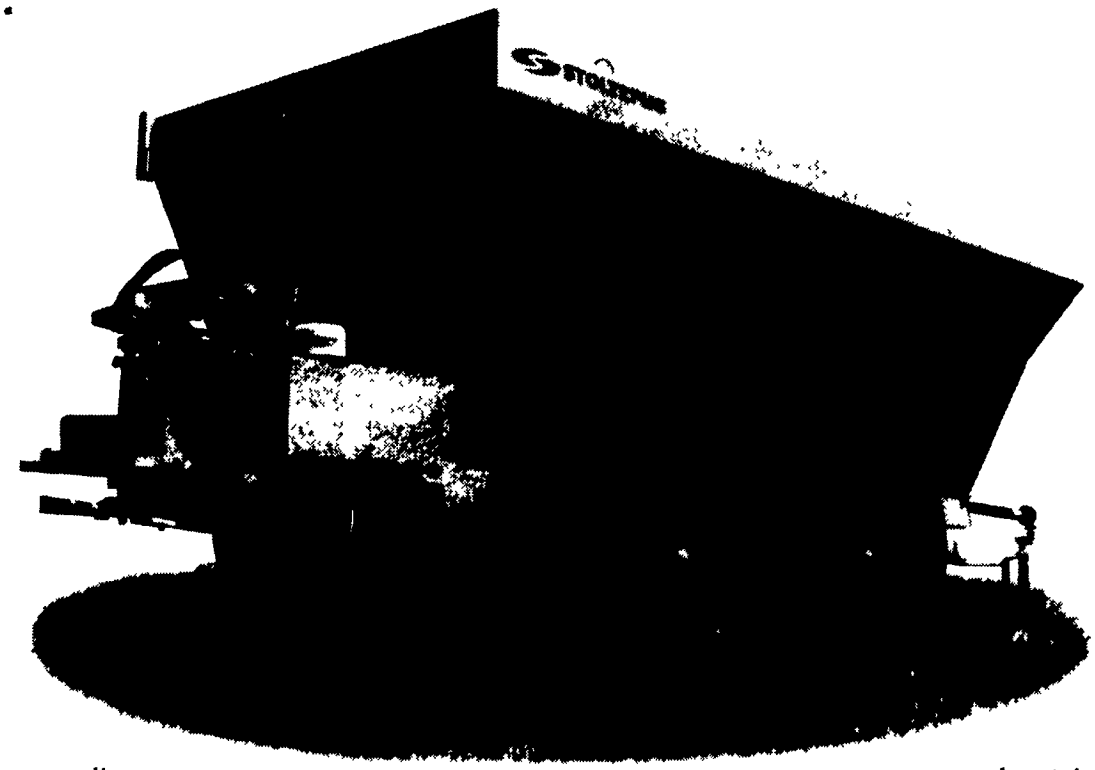
Sometimes You Need A Spreader Built Like A Tank.



When spreading stockpiled lime, for example. The Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreader is likely the most powerful spreader of its kind on the market today. You see, we've been building them since 1945, and farmers are still using Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreaders they've had for 20, even 30 years. Our special drag chain is 4 times stronger than stainless steel, and handles frozen and heavy stockpiled lime with ease. Plus, for spreading compost, composted sludge, poultry litter and certain fertilizers, the WLS is without equal for sheer volume spreading. We call that performance. You'll call it terrific.

We hope you compare a Stoltzfus WLS with other spreaders. It makes us look even better. Price? Sure we may be a little more. But when you end up replacing cheaper units in a few short years, what have you saved? Stoltzfus quality always pays foritself many times over.

Just how tough is a Stoltzfus WLS? Plenty tough. Call today. We'll tell you where to find the dealer nearest you, and send you free literature to inspect.

Candlelight Tour At Cloister

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.)—Clear cold moonlight glistens from the steeply gabled wooden rooftops. Darkened dormer windows star vacantly on the tranquil scene of crooken limbs grasping upward toward the darkened sky. The antique style of the buildings and the serenity of the scene is evocative of the wild landscape of medievel Germany. Some of the individuals to whom visitors will be introduced admidst this scene of wild and enchanting beauty on four evenings in December will speak of the experiences of the original German-speaking pioneers who settled on the banks of the Cocalico Creek in what was then Pennsylvania's Conestoga wilderness more than a quarter of a millenium ago.

Using a technique called first-person interpretation, which combines history with theater, visitors to the Ephrata Cloister on the evenings of December 26, 27, 28 and 29, will see and hear the Ephrata Cloister Chapter of the Student Historians of Pennsylvania portray Moravian missionary Anna Nichman, Swedish minister Israel Acrelius, and a local Mennonite housewife among others who will relate their perspectives on Ephrata. All of these individuals were real people whose accounts of early Ephrata are contained in a 1952 book entitled "Ephrata as seen by contemporaries."

A few surprises may emerge as their stories unfold, for it is rumored that one of these three cannot be trusted, another will make a great sacrifice, and the third will discover a community with the appearance of outward calm but inner struggle.

The site of one of America's earliest communal societies, the Ephrata Cloister was founded in 1732 by Conrad Beissel, a German pietist mystic. It is best known for its fine examples of calligraphic writing known as Fraktuschriften, its impressive body of choral music, its vast output as a colonial printing center, and the survival of fine Germanic medieval style log and half-timber buildings.

The Student Historian Chapter is an educational program of the Ephrata Cloiser Associates, the non-profit volunteer organization which helps interpret the site. . .

Owned and administered by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, the Ephrata Cloister is located at the junction of Routes 322 and 272 in Ephrata. The Christmas Candlelight Tours will depart from the Visitors Center on the evenings of December 26, 27, 28 and 29 at the half hour from 6:30 to 9:00 p.m. Tickets are $6 for adults, $5 for seniors, and $4 for youth (6-17). Reservations are required.

For reservations, call (717) 733-4282 on weekdays or (717) 733-6600 on weekends. Individuals with disabilities who require assistance or accomodation should call ahead to discuss their needs.

Holiday To Remember

Dressing Well

"The neat thing about cooking is that you can always eat your mistakes," said Chef Bruce Squibb, a culinary arts instructor. Squibb and two students from Berks Career and Technology Center, prepared several dressings to show how they can be combined with other foods for holiday dishes.

Some cooking hints:

- Replace mayonnaise with nonfat yogurt or ricotta cheese for low fat recipes.
- In order to brown an item, do not stir until browned.
- Add defatted chicken stock instead of oil in salad dressings for lower fat content.
- Arrowroot thickens at lower temperatures than cornstarch and will remain clear. Do not bring arrowroot to a full boil or overmix to prevent mixture from becoming slimy.
- To roast garlic, place whole cloves in oven. Bake at 350 degrees until golden brown, about 10-20 minutes.
- Flavor vinegar — bring 2 cups vinegar to a boil, add a handful of berries. Pour into jar. Wait two weeks before using.

CAPER DRESSING

7 ounces ricotta cheese, pureed
14-ounces nonfat yogurt
7-ounces red wine vinegar
2-ounces capers, rinsed, chopped
½ -ounce chives, cut
¼ -ounce parsley, chopped
1 ounce shallots, chopped
2 cloves garlic
1½ tablespoon basil, chopped
2½ -ounces Dijon mustard
Combine all ingredients.

RASPBERRY SAUCE

8 ounces frozen raspberries
2 ounces Kirschwasser
1½ ounces honey
4 ounces white wine
1 ounce sugar

SCALLOPS OF TURKEY WITH CIDER SAUCE AND RED ONION CONFIT

4 cups apple cider
1½ tablespoon shallots, minced
1 clove garlic, minced
1 bay leaf
1½ teaspoon cider vinegar
3 tablespoons arrowroot or cornstarch
1 each apple, diced
10 turkey scallops (4-ounces each)
5 teaspoons butter
Flour as needed

Confit:

2 tablespoons olive oil
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 shallot, minced
2 cups onion, minced
2 ounces vinegar
1 ounce honey
2 oranges, zest and juice
1 each lime, zest and juice
1 ounce red pepper, minced
1½ ounce tomato concasse
2½ tablespoons currants, dried and chopped
2½ tablespoons raisins, dried and chopped

Combine shallots, bayleaf, garlic, and vinegar, reduce by half. Add cider and apples, simmer 15-20 minutes. Dissolve arrowroot in water and thicken sauce.

What You Need To Know About Baking Perfect Cookies, Cakes, And Pies

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — It's the season for prolific baking. And, what can be more frustrating than spending hours baking cookies that burn on the bottoms or bake unevenly?

Maybe you don't understand why one batch can turn out perfectly and the next batch is burned on the bottom and underbaked on the top. According to Alletta Schadler, Lebanon extension director, there are scientific reasons for baking problems.

"If you want top quality cookies, cakes, and pies, there are tricks to the trade," Schadler said at a recent workshop held at Prescott Firehouse. "You can use the same cookie batter and have the cookies turn out entirely different depending on the cookie sheet used."

The texture, dryness, appearance, flavor, doneness, and volume of cookies are affected by the type of baking sheet used.

• The best conductor of heat is aluminum. A medium weight moderately shiny aluminum pan or cookie sheet will produce the same degree of browning on the bottom of the product as will occur on the top. Keep your pans clean and shiny by washing thoroughly and cleaning with a steel wool pan. The aluminum pan that has been painted on the outside will absorb heat at a different rate than an unpainted pan. Food will be browner.

• Air cushion aluminum cookie sheets and baking pans bake slower than single thickness pans. Additional baking time will almost always be needed. Cookies may flatten more because they bake and set slower. Be sure to cool sheets completely between uses. The center of thick cookies may tend to be underdone.

• Dark pans such as non-stick coated or black aluminum will absorb heat and will cause the bottoms and edges to brown faster than the tops of food. You may need to reduce heat or shorten baking time. It may be hard to get evenly baked cookies.

• Glass baking dishes will absorb and hold heat, resulting in greater browning and some drying out of the product unless the oven temperature is reduced by 25 degrees. Shorter baking time may be needed. This characteristic of holding heat is desirable when baking pies. Do not reduce the temperature for pies. Ceramic baking pans may take longer depending on how thick they are.

• Shiny aluminum foil pans reflect heat and may need extra baking time to achieve proper browning. Foil pie pans almost always produce underbaked bottom crusts and maybe underdone fillings. Placing the foil pan on a baking sheet may help remedy this problem.

• Non-stick coated tin pans will resist rust and be easier to clean. Depending on how dark the coating is on the outside or bottom of the pan, the browning rate may be increased.

• Stainless steel baking pans are not good conductors of heat. They are slow to respond and uneven in effect.

FAT SUBSTITUTING INGREDIENTS

Many people are trying to watch calories by reducing their fat intake. For this reason, cooks are experimenting and trying low-fat dessert recipes — often with disappointing results.

Schadler said, "Changing the form or type of fat in the recipe can have significant effects on the texture. Other alterations must be made to compensate. Fats tenderize bakded products and improve keeping qualities. Reducing fat will ususally affect the finished product's texture and shelf life."

She suggests reducing the total amount of fat in a recipe by one fourth. This works best in fruit and nut breads, cake recipes and sauces. Do not do this in rolled cookies or pie crust recipes where fat is critical. Drop cookies might lend themselves to fat reduction. Be prepared for some change in texture. The best way to modify a recipe is to try to find a lowered fat recipe of a similar type and compare to the recipe you are thinking of modifying.

All you even need to know about baking perfect cookies by using the right cookie sheet is explained by Alletta Schadler, Lebanon County extension director, while Fran Deitz, right, listens.

TYPE OF FAT IN A RECIPE

• If the recipe calls for oil, use an oil that is lower in saturated fat. The lowest is canola, then sunflower or corn or olive. It will not reduce the caloric value if you do this but will reduce saturated fat. Saturated fat has the effect of raising the blood level of cholesterol.

Caution: Oils that are labeled light do not have less fat or calories, they are lighter in color and flavor. Vegetable oils never have cholesterol. All oils have 120 calories per tablespoon.

• If the recipe calls for shortening, it means solid vegetable shortening that is hydrogenated. Do not substitute oil. This will alter the texture greatly. You would need to reduce liquid somewhere in the recipe. Try to find a recipe already designed for oil. Butter flavored shortening behaves like shortening — not butter.

• If you substitute butter or margarine for shortening, there may be a change in the texture of cookies and other baked products, mainly because of the water in the butter that will ususally cause the batter to spread more as it bakes.

• If the recipe calls for butter, you can substitute regular stick-type margarine having 100 calories per tablespoon to reduce the saturated fat and cholesterol in the recipe. You will not save calories. Margarine, by law, must contain 100 calories of fat per tablespoon. Butter and margarine are actually one 80 percent fat. The rest in milk solids and water. If you want to substitute oil for butter, you need to reduce the amount by 20 percent. It is not always successful. Salted butter will keep longer than unsalted butter. Unsalted is much more delicate in flavor and should be used quickly.

• If the recipe calls for margarine a stick-type margarine that is 100 percent corn oil will make a softer dough than other margarine. In cookies, you will need to chill for at least 5 hours before rolling. You may even find it works better if you chill in the freezer. Any stick-type margarine that has as its first listed ingredient "liquid ....oil" will behave the same way. Soft tub-type margarines behave differently in recipes than stick-type. Do not use tub-type margarines in baking cookies.

• Reduced fat margarines come in many new spreads and stick-form shapes that have less fat than regular margarine. The products have increased water added and they will behave differently than butter or margarine in recipes. Recipes are being developed especially for the use of these products. The products may vary from 68 percent to no fat. The generic name fo them in recipes is reduced calorie margarine or reduced calorie spread. Do not try to bake with one of these products having less than 50 calories per tablespoons or 5 to 6 grams of fat. Carefully read the label on old favorite brands of margarines. Some have recently been changed with little clear warning on the package.

• Lard is softer and oilier than other solid fats unless it has been partially hydrogenated to increase shelf-life. This will also increase its saturated fat level, which is already high. Lard does work well in biscuits and pie crusts.

• In order to reduce fat in recipes, some people substitute equal amounts of unsweetened applesauce in cakes, muffins, quick breads, and brownies. This will produce a more moist product. It does not work for drop or rolled cookies. Sometimes it works if you replace only half the fat in a cookie recipe with unsweetened applesauce or pureed prunes, although the flavor is not always compatible with the desired effect.

• Low or non-fat yogurt is also substituted for oil in cake mixes. It can replace half the fat in cookies. The finished product is more dense than the fat version.

• Baking reduced fat recipes may require shorter baking times and perhaps a reduced temperature to prevent over baked and dry products.

Pumpkin Vase

Scoop out the seeds and strings. To give a clean smooth interior, use the melon baller to scrape the surface and remove all insides.

Trim floral foam to be inserted into a glass jar. The jar's size should depend on the size of your pumpkin. You want a jar that is able to sit in the pumpkin and not extend above the lip or top of the pumpkin vase. Totally saturate the foam with water.

The vase is now ready to be filled with assorted materials of your choice. Stems of flowers can be inserted directly into foam.

To secure apples, artichokes, broccoli, lettuce, mushrooms, onion, potatoes, radishes or squash, use craft picks and hot glue. Lettuce, mushrooms, and radishes will begin to shrink or wilt within 2 or 3 days. Other produce lasts from five to 12 days. Replace wilted items with fresh ones as long as the remaining arrangement looks nice.

PREPARE BAKING PANS

Butter and margarine contain a small amount of water so when you use them to grease a cake pan, you need to flour the pan to absorb the moisture. If you use shortening, the flouring step is not required. Spray vegetable shortenings can be used as a substitute.

When baking chocolate cakes or cakes with lots of fruit or ver low fat, you may want to use a greased pan lined with a waxed paper or parchment disc and then grease again to ensure easy removal of the cake from the pan.

Somerset Recognizes 4-H'ers At 26th Annual Banquet

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

BERLIN (Somerset Co.)—Showing awesome respect for the first winter blast to hit the county, about 330 persons donned outer garments, gloves and sturdy footwear to honor hard working 4-Hers and their leaders at the Somerset County 4-H Recognition Dinner held Nov. 8.

The Outstanding 4-Her awards, this year, were presented by Penn-West Farm Credit to Jennifer Black of the Brotherton Belles and Beaus 4-H Club, and Natalie Welch of the Milksquirts 4-H Club. Both young women are away at college.

Black, the daughter of Doug and Peggy Black, Boswell, also received scholarships from PNC Bank, B.J. Mauer Ford, Somerset County Lady Shepherds, Hoss's Steak and Sea House, Dean O'Neil Ford, and Fabian Family Chiropractic Center.

The daughter of Dr. David and Connie Welch, Welch's scholarships came from Somerset Trust Company, Somerset County Beef Producers, Karen Marteeny Endowment Fund, Hoss's Steak and Sea House, Dean O'Neil Ford and Fabian Family Chiropractic Center and the Betsy Will Custer Outstanding 4-H Dairy Member Award presented by the Somerset County 4-H dairy clubs and the Brotherton Belles and Beaus 4-H Club.

Corey Sechler, son of Rick and Audrey Sechler, received scholarships from the Somerset County Lady Shepherds, Leroy Glessner Endowment Fund, Highland Tank and Mfg. Company, Hoss's Steak and Sea House, Dean O'Neil Ford, and Fabian Family Chiropractic Center.

Brian Shaffer, son of Lee and Jean Shaffer, received scholarships from Somerset County Home Builders' and Suppliers Assn.; Keystone Lime Company, Inc., First Philson Bank, Hemminger Homes, Hoss's Steak and Sea House, Dean O'Neil Ford and Fabian Family Chiropractic Center.

Scholarship and awards tallied more than $6,000 in educational contributions to the career 4-Hers.

Lynette Ely, Jenner Twp. received the Sapphire Clover for 35 years of leadership. Barbara Brant got the Emerald Clover for 25 years of leadership.

Award of the Diamond Clover for 20 years of leadership went to Barbara Darr, Judy Glessner and Debbie Svonavec.

Bonnie Ray, 15 years, received the Award of Pearl Clover.

For 10 years of leadership Award of the Gold Clover went to Betty Anderson, Jay Ansell, James Kretchman, Bonnie Miller, John Minnich, Rebecca Minnich, Merle Mostoller, Terry Suder and Wayne Yoder.

Five year leader Silver Clovers went to Vincent Barbera, Scott Darr, Susan Darr, Joseph Deem, Penny Deem, Terry Landis, Bonnie Miller, Duana Sheeler, Kathy Sines, Bradley Walker, Sharon Warner, Cathy Zborovancik.

Lauren Lynch, 4-H Council president and Peggy Black, president of the Somerset County 4-H Development Fund shared responsibility for the evening's program.

Cook's Question

Sour Cream Chocolate Layer Cake

4 egg yolks
3 egg whites
1½ cups sugar
1 cup thick sour cream
1 teaspoon baking soda
Pinch salt
1½ cups flour
2 squares chocolate

Beat egg yolks and sugar until yolks are light colored. Melt chocolate in part of the sour cream. Cool. Add remaining sour cream. Sift baking soda, salt, and flour, add alternately to yolk mixture and chocolate mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into batter. Bake in 2-layer cake pans at 350 degrees until cake tests done.

Sour Cream Chocolate Cake

3 squares unsweetened baking chocolate
½ cup butter
1 cup water
1¾ cups unsifted flour
2 cups granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon baking soda
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 cup dairy sour cream

Melt together chocolate, butter, and water. In a large bowl, measure and mix together flour, sugar, salt, and baking soda.

To this mixture, add the eggs, vanilla, and melted chocolate mixture. Beat until well blended. Fold in sour cream. Pour into well greased 13x9x2-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes. Cool completely before frosting.

Chocolate Frosting

4 cups confectioners' sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup cocoa
½ cup butter
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
⅓ cup milk

Sift confectioner's sugar if lumpy, combine with salt and cocoa. Cream butter. Add egg. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk and vanilla. Beat until creamy. Depending on the size of the egg, you may need all the milk to reach the desired consistency.

Shirley writes the chocolate icing really adds a crowning touch to the moist, delicious cake. This is enough frosting for two cakes. I use half and freeze half.

ANSWER — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V. wanted a recipe to make homemade condensed milk that uses dry milk. Thanks to a Newmanstown reader for sending a recipe that she said is wonderful.

Sweetened Condensed Milk

½ cup boiling water
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup sugar
1⅓ cup dry powdered milk

Measure boiling water into blender. Add butter, sugar, and milk. Blend briefly. Scrape sides and blend 30 seconds. Pour out and let stand until thick and cool. This is equivalent to a 14-ounce can of sweetened condensed milk.

ANSWER — Cindy Stoodley, Shickshinny, wanted a recipe for homemade lobster bisque. Thanks to Nancy Sauder, Lititz, for sending a recipe.

Lobster Bisque

½ pound lobster meat, cooked
½ cup dry sherry
¼ cup butter
4 tablespoons flour
3 cups half and half (or milk)
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
Dash salt and white pepper

Fresh Coconut Cake

1 package fresh frozen coconut, thawed
¼ cup warm milk
½ teaspoon coconut flavoring
3 tablespoons confectioner's sugar
Your favorite buttercream frosting

You Ask

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

QUESTION — Yvonne Lawrence, Newburgh, N.Y., would like to know where to purchase a rhubarb and soda mixture used for indigestion. She used to purchase it in a pharmacy but finds the New York pharmacies don't stock it anymore.

ANSWER — A.M. Rohrer, East Berlin, wanted the words to the following poem by Dorothy Parker.

My plume on high, my flag unfurled,
"Come out, you dogs, and fight!" said I,
And wept there was but once to die.

But I am old; and good and bad

Frederick County Ag Society To Meet

FREDERICK, MD— The annual stockholders meeting of the Frederick County Agricultural Society will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 9, in the Administration Office at the Frederick Fairgrounds here.

The society's 250 life members are encouraged to attend the meeting which will be highlighted by numerous reports, including the upgrading of the entertainment stage, the possible acquisition of 8.44 acres on Highland Street and looking ahead to the 1996 Great Frederick Fair. The society's newly adopted logo will also be unveiled; the logo will be incorporated extensively on all of the organization's promotional materials.

J.R. Ramsburg Jr. of Thurmont will end his two-year term as president of the organization. Robert Frank of Frederick will end his two-year term as vice president, while Maurice Gladhill, also of Frederick, completes two years as secretary. Nancy Hendricks of Middletown completes two years as the Board's treasurer.

The Frederick County Agricultural Society hosts the annual Great Frederick Fair, one of the oldest country fairs in the country. In 1996, the fair will celebrate its 134th event, running from September 13-21.

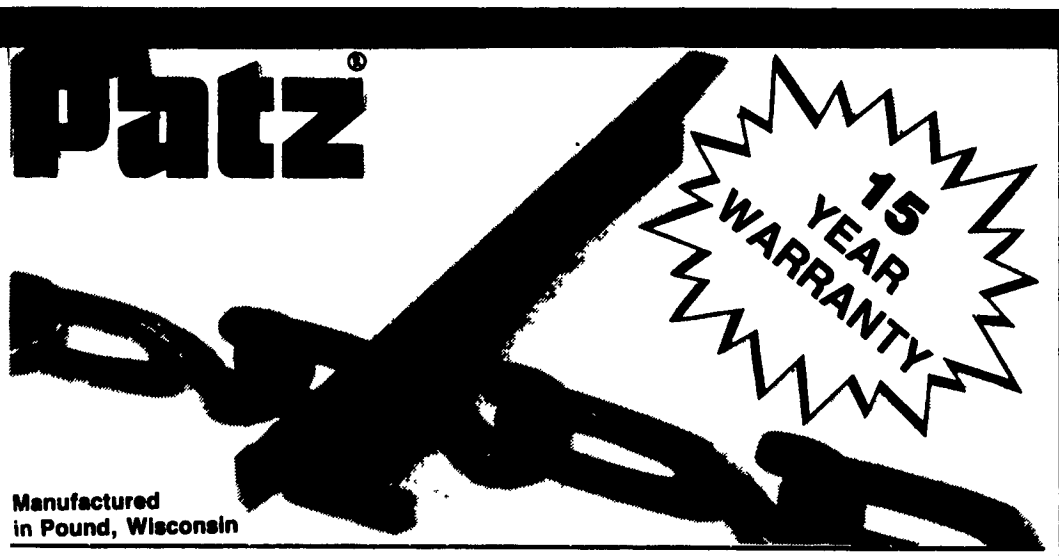
Milk Classic & Contemporary

Patz®



Manufactured in Pound, Wisconsin

Only Patz gives you 45 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain, resulting in a chain so good that others are attempting to copy it.

After the Patz patent on hook-and-eye chain expired, some other companies have attempted to copy the Patz chain. Some promote 10- and 12-year warranties on chain—but they have not yet had 10 or 12 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain.

Rely on the proven, long-life chain. Patz provides a 15-year chain warranty because so many chains are working well long after 15 years of use.

Better yet, your Patz chain warranty is backed up by a solid, reliable company that has been serving farmers for 45 years with the same family ownership.

Insist on Patz chain!

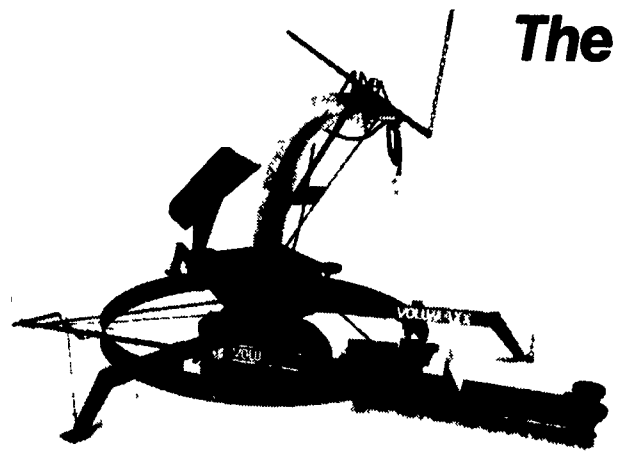
Farmers in the Know, Know Jamesway®...



The Silo Unloader Experts

Your Jamesway® Dealer is a silo unloader expert. He carries a complete line of Jamesway unloaders and has the specialized training and parts to keep them working for years to come. He's also a feedroom and feeding equipment expert who knows your silo unloaders are an important part of your feeding system.

It's no wonder there are more Jamesway unloaders working on North American dairy farms than any other brand. So if you're looking to replace your old unloader, check with an expert—your Jamesway Dealer.

■ Volumaxx® High-Capacity Big Ring Silo Unloader
Backed by over 40 years of unloader technology and our three year C.A.P (Customer Assurance Protection) warranty this durable brute offers unmatched performance, distribution choices, and ring drive convenience.

■ Pacmaster™ . . . Jamesway Quality In a Pack Drive Unloader
This economical "workhorse" sets the standard no other pack drive can match. Stronger, with greater capacity, the Pacmaster will give you years of efficient, trouble-free service.

■ Big Jim® B.U.C.S. Breathes New Life Into Bottom Unloading Structures
If you've had it with the high maintenance costs, slow delivery and low capacity of your bottom unloader, than Big Jim B.U.C S. (Bottom Unloader Conversion System) is for you. Get big volume unloading, reliability, lower maintenance costs, greater silo capacity, and excellent quality haylage.

York Sets Farm Visitation Day

YORK (York Co.) — The William Buser Farm will be the host for the York County Chamber of Commerce Farm Visitation Day on Sunday, Nov. 19, from 1 p.m.-4 p.m.

Sponsored by the Agribusiness Committee of the York Chamber of Commerce, the entire family can enjoy a fun-filled day of activities for free. Visitors can:

- Wind their way through the straw bale maze created by Eastern High School FFA.
- Learn with educational videos and exhibits presented by the York County Recreation and Parks, Recycle America, and Modern Landfill.
- Sip fresh apple cider from a working cider press.
- Enjoy hotdogs, hamburgers, cookies, drinks, and more from several food stands.
- Hitch up for a hayride to nearby dairy and horse farms and a working cider press.

Location of the Buser Farm: head east on Rt. 124. Make a right onto Buser Farm Lane (6.7 miles from exit 7 of I-83). Go ¼ mile down the lane to the signs for parking. Hay rides to the other farms will be provided free of charge.

Planter Handles Twelve 30-Inch, Twenty-Three 15-Inch Rows

MOLINE, Ill.—For growers who want the flexibility to plant 30-inch and 15-inch rows with the same machine, John Deere has introduced the 1780 Narrow-Row Front-Fold MaxEmerge 2™ Planter.

The 1780 Planter provides growers with the convenience of in-line-mounted row units and fold-and-go transport, the capability to apply liquid fertilizer in 30-inch rows without interference with the 15-inch row units, and the accurate seed placement of Deere's MaxEmerge 2 row unit.

The planter's in-line design places all of the 23-row units behind the toolbar, which makes filling hoppers fast and easy. Compared to a push/pull-type row unit design, the in-line configuration also helps reduce side loads on the row units when operating on contours and rolling terrain.

The even-numbered row units are set back seven inches for good soil and residue flow. A simple tool for lifting and lowering the row units make changing configurations a one-person job, taking just seconds per row. The tool stores on the planter.

The John Deere 1780 narrow-row front-fold conservation planter provides the flexibility to plant 12, 30-inch rows and 23, 15-inch rows with one machine. The in-line design of the MaxEmerge 2™ row units makes filling hoppers fast and convenient.

The planter features a three-section, flexible frame that allows the wings to flex 8 degrees up and 8 degrees down relative to the center section. The flexing action contributes to accurate seed placement by enabling the planter to closely follow contours in rolling ground. The center section carries 13-row units on 15-inch spacing (six units on 30-inch). Each wing has five units on 15-inch spacing (three units on 30-inch).

Vermeer Introduces New Silage Wrapper

PELLA, Iowa—A new bale wrapper designed specifically for producing tight, film-wrapped silage bales is available from Vermeer Manufacturing Company.

The SW2500 silage wrapper is easy to operate. The bale is manually loaded onto a variable-speed turntable. As the bale spins and the table turns, pre-tensioned plastic film (20 inch or 30 inch sizes) wraps and seals the bale.

Special bumpers retain the bale and keep it from shifting during the wrapping process. When the bale is fully wrapped, the table tilts and the bale is gently lowered to the ground.

The SW2500 is capable of wrapping bales up to 2500 pounds and 5 feet in width. Hydraulic system requirements include one set of auxiliary outlets (1,500 psi min; 4.0 gpm 16L/min @ 26 rpm). Hitch height is adjustable from 13 inch to 22 inch.

Working To Put More Soybean Oil In House Pipes

COLUMBUS, Ohio—Battelle researches want to see more soybean oil in your pipes.

The Ohio Soybean Council recently hired Battelle to conduct research to increase the percentage of soybean oil in PVC plastic pipes.

The successful completion of the project would benefit the environment, and greatly increase the demand for soybeans, according to Bhima Vijayendran, a researcher at Battelle who is heading the project.

PVC is a type of plastic used to make household pipe. However, it is a very rigid plastic, and plasticizers must be used to make it more pliable. About 30 percent of a finished PVC product is comprised of plasticizers.

Soybean oil is used as a plasticizer and accounts for about three percent of the plasticizers used to make PVC. The remaining plasticizers are petroleum-based products.

Battelle's goal is to modify the structure of soybean oil molecules, enabling manufacturers to use up to 25 percent soybean oil in the plasticizing process.

"Not only would that be beneficial to soybean growers, but it would be beneficial to the environment, since soybean oil is a natural, biodegradable product, whereas petroleum-based plasticizers are not," said Vijayendran.

Currently, soybean oil can be used as a plasticizer in a limited percentage—no more than 5 percent. Used in larger percentages, the oil's molecular makeup causes the plastic to become brittle and degrade.

"What we propose to do is chemically change the structure of the soybean oil," said Vijayendran. "We want to adjust the molecules to help the oil overcome its weaknesses."

Computerized molecular modeling will be used to evaluate the performance of modified soybean oil molecules. Chemists will then synthesize the highest ranked candidates for testing puposes.

Herbicide Receives EPA Registration

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — As many traditional herbicides are taken off the market, farmers are forced to search for alternatives.

The company has received federal registration from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for Scorpion III herbicide — a post-emerge broadleaf weed-control product for corn.

Scorpion III gives corn growers the ability to control heavy weed infestations later in the season when a single preemergence treatment would be inadequate. It is a low-volume, dry product marketed in water-soluble bags for fewer container-disposal problems.

A combination of three chemistries, the herbicide attacks weeds with multiple modes of action. That means better weed control and less chance of developing resistant weeds. Scorpion III controls a wide spectrum of broadleaf weeds, including velvetleaf, smartweed, pigweed, lambsquarters, tall waterhemp, and black nightshade. In addition, it is effective on tough-to-control common ragweed, giant ragweed, cocklebur and triazine-resistant varieties of velvetleaf, pigweed and lambsquarters — weeds other post-applied products may miss. And it delivers suppression of emerged Canada thistle.

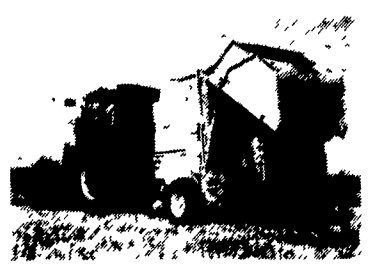
The newly registered herbicide can be tank-mixed or sequentially applied after most currently marketed grass herbicides, Scorpion III is not a triazine, can be used over any soil insecticide program and has few rotational crop restrictions.

High-Density Belt Tension System For Balers

PELLA, Iowa—Hay producers interested in Vermeer's popular Super "I" Scries balers can now choose between two belt tension systems: the standard double spring system, or an optional new high-density system that utilizes both spring tension and hydraulic assist.

The new hydraulic-assist belt tension option allows operators to create tighter, higher-density bales that resist spoilage. It also allows the operator to preset the density and bale diameter (from 36 inches to 60 inches) to better match specific harvesting and handling requirements.

Vermeer Super "I" Series Balers offer producers the conveniences and handling characteristics of a big bale system, without having to step up to higher horsepower tractors. They are available in three models: the 505I (5-foot diameter, 5-foot wide bales, w/ min. 50hp tractor), the 504I (5-foot diameter, 4-foot wide bales, w/min. 40hp tractor) and one of the only balers in the field specifically designed for the challengers of baling high-moisture hay, the 504 Silage I (5-foot diameter, 4-foot wide bales, w/ min. 55hp tractor).



Hay producers interested in Vermeer's popular Super "I" Series balers can now choose between two belt tension systems: the standard double spring system or an optional new high-density system that utilizes both spring tension and hydraulic assist.

Karcher Recognizes Kochel

ELVERSON (Chester Co.)—Alfred Karcher, Inc. has recognized Kochel Equipment of Elverson as the number one Karcher dealer in the USA for the third consecutive year.

"It is only fitting that as Karcher celebrates its 60th Anniversary, we honor Doug Kochel as one of the most successful and consistent Karcher Dealers in the United States. Kochel Equipment has been selling Karcher pressure washers for over 10 years and Doug is one of the brightest and most respected pressure washer people in America today. We are proud of our relationship with Doug and the tremendous success which he and his team have achieved," said Tom Dyszkiewicz, president of Karcher.

Kochel Equipment has successfully sold Karcher products through a sales force of only three outside sales people including Doug Kochel himself and a first class/quality dealer network. Kochel also operates one of the most technically advanced and profitable service departments, made up of four service technicians.

Diversey Introduces Powdered Enzyme Cleaner

LIVONIA, Mich.—Diversey, a global supplier of milk parlor sanitation chemicals and udder health products, introduces Diver™ White, a powdered enzyme cleaner for CIP systems on dairy farms.

Diversey brings you this leading technology specially formulated to clean and shine all milk pipelines and bulk tanks in various water conditions. Its unique enzyme technology is more efficient and safer to use than normal chlorinated powdered detergents because it is environmentally friendly.

Diver™ White is nonphosphated, nonchlorinated, and contains low amounts of sodium.

EVERY GREAT TEAM LEARNS TO ADAPT.

It's not enough to be powerful. And it's not enough to be tough. In today's agriculture, you have to be flexible. That's why the MAGNUM™ tractor and the Case IH 3900 flex-wing disk harrow make such a formidable team. • The 3900 offers incredibly tough gangs and a flex-wing design that works smoothly through uneven terrain. Better yet, the 3900 comes equipped with exclusive Case IH Earth Metal® blades and your choice of gangs — standard or spring-cushion. For hard soil conditions, high-penetration blades are also available. • Of course, the MAGNUM tractor has certainly proven its ability to adapt. With its 18-speed, full-powershift transmission and high-capacity, pressure- and flow-compensated hydraulics, the MAGNUM is the perfect teammate for heavy-duty tillage operations. After eight years and more than 50,000 MAGNUM tractors, it's a fact that's been proven again and again. • Reliable, durable and built to perform, this team is backed by the Total Product Support of Case IH parts, credit and dealer services. Add it up, and you'll see how the MAGNUM tractor and the 3900 disk harrow team are another way we're Systematically Improving The Way America Farms.

"...No complaints. We were surprised to find how easy it is to milk cows. Milk production went up and SCC decreased! With the indexing fronts our heifers are no longer a problem. We now milk twice the number of cows with less labor. The automatic ID and sort gate make it easy to breed cows and handle individual cow problems.

Looking back, we're glad we built a new parlor instead of remodeling the old system. If we decide to increase cow numbers the parlor will handle the job."

TAX FILING ERRORS INCREASE FARMER'S INCOME TAX

Duane Stevenson
Northampton County
Cooperative
Extension Agent

Incorrect reporting of sales of business property may result in farm taxpayers paying more income and self-employment tax than necessary.

The farm manager should be aware of some relatively simple rules when completing the tax return or when checking a tax return that was prepared by a paid preparer.

Sale of cull breeding livestock is the source of many reporting errors. Livestock that was used for breeding purposes or that was intended to be used for breeding purposes receive special tax treatment. Income from these animals is reported on form 4797 and never on the schedule 'F'.

If sales of breeding livestock are incorrectly reported on schedule 'F', the taxpayer pays self-employment tax of 15.3 percent on the income. Sales of property used in the business (such as breeding livestock) do not qualify as earnings from self-employment and thus is not subject to self-employment tax. Consequently, when sales of breeding livestock are reported on the schedule 'F', the taxpayer pays more tax than he/she should.

If breeding livestock sales meet a holding period requirement, the resulting income qualifies for capital gain treatment on the tax return. That holding period rule requires breeding cattle to have been owned two years or more prior to sale. Sales of raised animals that meet the requirement should be reported in Part I of the form 4797. In the case of purchased breeding cattle, the sale is reported in Part III of the form if there is a gain on the sale.

Some breeding animals qualify as property used in the business but do not meet the holding period requirement. For example, replacement dairy animals that are initially retained to enter the milking herd but do not reach a desired weight or quality by the time they are yearlings.

Income from sales of these animals should not be reported on schedule 'F' even though they do not meet the two-year holding period requirement. They are reported in Part II of the form 4797 and become "ordinary" income. However, the income is not subject to self-employment tax, unlike income that is reported on schedule 'F'. Here again, the taxpayer who correctly files this type of income saves 15.3 percent self-employment tax.

Farm managers sometimes realize after their tax return is filed that sales of business property have been incorrectly reported. What to do? If the error was made on a return completed during the past three years, an amended return can be filed. The amended return will correct the filing error and also recover the excess tax that was paid.

More information about preparing the farm tax return is available from the Farmers Tax Guide, available at your local Penn State County Extension Office. Ask for IRS publication 225.

When You Buy A Brillion You Get The Best

FLAIL SHREDDERS 12 Ft. And 15 Ft.

FLAIL SHREDDERS Heaviest gearbox on the market eliminates the number one cause of downtime. Available in 12' and 15'. Either cup or side slicer knives. 540 or 1000 RPM.

New SOIL COMMANDERS New

The New Brillion Soil Commanders take Residue Management to the next generation of soil conservation efficiency.

The Soil Commanders are a versatile tillage tool designed to meet the needs of the mid-size farmer who uses a 150-200 H.P. tractor. One of the keys to the machine's versatility is that it uses interchangeable shank legs and individually mounted disk assemblies instead of a disk gang. This makes possible a machine with disk assemblies on the front and rear of the frame with chisel plow or deep-ripper shanks on 15", 24", 27" or 30" spacings.

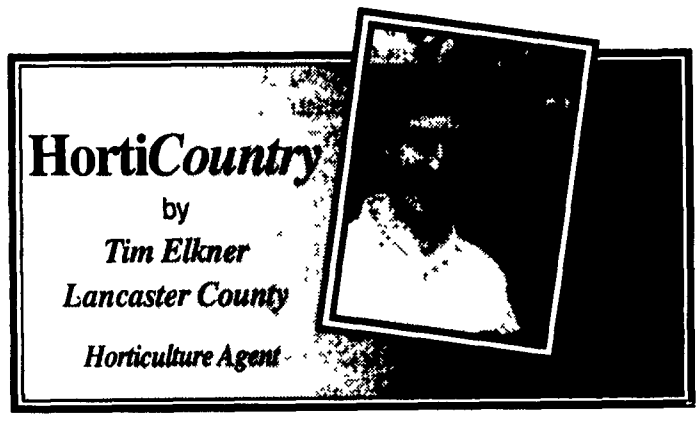
ROLLING ON...IN THE 90'S Brillion MEETS THE CHALLENGE



QUALITY MUST PREVAIL

This topic crosses the lines of all commodities we produce for sale. Don't be mislead into thinking that this issue is of concern only to the producer of "some other crop" because it also applies to you.

I'm sure you've been exposed to poor quality produce and the effect it has. I can recall numerous visits to the grocery store with the intention of buying a certain produce item only to find such poor quality that I made a different selection or none at all.

While some of the responsibility for this situation rests with the retailer, there are many practices that the grower uses that start the path toward poor quality in the grocery store.

"Most Consumers Buy With Their Eyes" was the title of an article in the Oct. 2 edition of The Packer, a newspaper of the produce industry. The article reported on an interview with Rick Noeth, the vice president of fresh produce for a southern food chain. He stated that consumers tell him they want four things in produce.

First, appearance is the most important consideration in terms of sales. Consumers buy with their eyes and thus sales are lost due to poor appearance. Second, the product has to have good taste for additional sales. Even if an item looks great, poor quality will stop repeat purchases. Third, consumers are looking for "ready to eat" foods like prepacked salads. And finally, consumers are looking for items that contribute to a "healthy" diet.

While the last two items are beyond your control, what happens in the field and during harvest and transport will have a profound influence on appearance and taste.

The results of a large-scale market research survey by Michigan State University provide additional strength to the above statements by Noeth. A high percentage of consumers (87 percent) in the survey reported that freedom from bruises and blemishes was very influential in determining if they purchased apples. This supports the observation that purchases are made with the eyes. The end result is that unbruised fruit will sell while damage results in lost sales.

With apples, most of this damage occurs during harvest and packing of the fruit. Reduced bruising results from proper harvest techniques, gentle emptying into bulk bins, careful transport into the packing house, a well-maintained packing line, and properly trained packers and loaders. As you can see, it's a complex set of factors affecting quality and a breakdown in any single step will reduce the quality of the end product.

While many of you are not large-scale producers and/or packers, the way you harvest and handle your produce will still influence its quality to the same extent.

Marita Cantwell, a researcher at the University of California-Davis with emphasis on melon production, reports that melons are susceptible to reduced quality if harvested too early. Although melons will have a longer shelf life when picked with minimum acceptable sweetness or soluble solids, the melons gain no additional sweetness once removed from the vine. Based on this information, growers should pick melons with higher sugar contents (higher quality) and then use methods such as cooling to maintain the melons quality for shipping or transport to market.

An adaptation of this principle for Lancaster would mean picking melons early in the morning before the fruit accumulates a large amount of field heat and then quickly moving the harvested fruit to a cool location.

Beth Mitcham, also at the University of California-Davis has studied strawberries extensively focusing on fruit quality. The results of one of her studies showed that strawberry quality begins decreasing after just one hour at temperatures above 85 degrees. While strawberries are a very perishable crop, this study still points out the need to examine all aspects of the fruit (and vegetable) handling operation. A practice as simple as moving harvested fruit and vegetables into a cool, shaded location as soon as possible after harvest can have a substantial influence on quality.

The heat from the sun accumulating in harvested produce in bins in the field or while in line at the auction is going to reduce the quality of that produce before it reaches market shelves. It's surprising how often a farmer strives to produce a high-quality product in the field but then uses poor harvesting and handling practices that reduce or eliminate the results of those extra efforts.

In the wine grape industry, we say that 75 percent of the ultimate wine quality is determined in the field. It is not possible to make high quality wine from poor quality grapes.

The same type of analogy is appropriate for the fresh produce industry. High quality produce will not show up on market shelves if initial produce quality and/or subsequent handling methods are poor.

NEED A NEW UNLOADER? NO PROBLEM!

Model 98C Gathering-chain Unloader Increases Blowing Capacity

Automatic self-leveling for uniform silage removal, saving trips up the silo.
Owners of Patz 61, 66, 98, 98A, and 98B unloaders: This bigger blower will fit your unloader.

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

The major costs on dairy and livestock farms are related to FEED: production...harvesting...storage...purchases...delivery to animals. Significant savings in time and money are possible when you store and deliver your feed from a poured concrete silo.

"As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency: This can have as great an influence on Profit as milk price changes."

Protect your valuable feeds from rain, sleet, snow, mud, ice, wind and the sun's heat. Reduce the stress. INCREASE THE EFFICIENCY OF YOUR FEEDS, LABOR, AND LIVESTOCK!

At Sollenberger Silos Corp. we know a lot about feed storage and handling; we've been in the business since 1908. If your plans call for new feed storage, give us a call...We'd like to contribute to your success!!

NO USED SILOS!

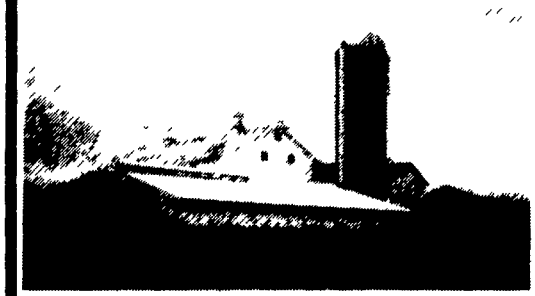
CURTAIN SYSTEMS



Lapp's Curtain System

Lapp's insulated curtains can help you make your farm more efficient. You can save up to 30% on your fuel/energy costs while maintaining a comfortable climate enables livestock to feed into live weight more efficiently, the curtain makes your barn warmer in winter and cooler in summer

Our curtains are available in both 4 and 6 ply, both of which are faced with a impervious white vinyl layer which faces the elements. With all these benefits, the average payback is two years!

A lower cost alternative to the insulated curtains, are Lapp's single layer curtains You still get all the benefits of using a high quality curtain to keep the elements outside and being able to lower the curtain to naturally ventilate in your barn.

TIRED OF LEAKING ROOFING? USE

WHEELING Channeldrain

ROOFING & SIDING

Exclusive drain channel guards against wind, rain and snow...assures dryness.

2. Wide nailing surface: Makes nailing easier and faster.
3. Drain channel: the exclusive leak-proof system that prevents capillary action; stays weather tight. This Wheeling feature has insured "dry barns" for thousands of farmers over the past 50 years.

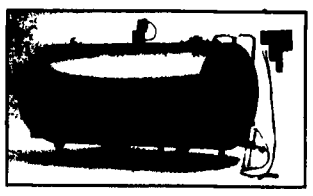
MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ 05¢/kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

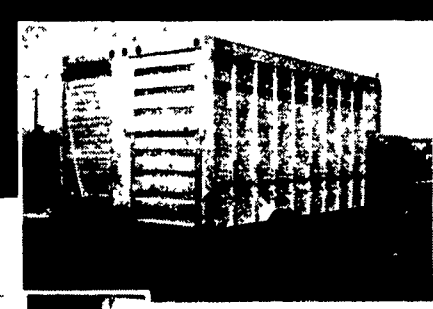
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

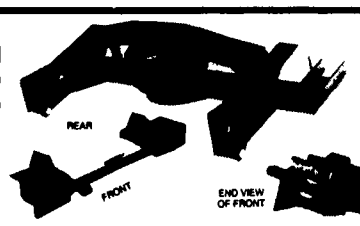
KELDERMAN AIR RIDE

SMOOTH



SMOOTH

Adding a Kelderman Air Ride Conversion system to your present suspension will result in a two stage suspension system. This is not to be confused with adding an Air bag mounted above the axle. Allows adding extra spring leafs to increase load rating and still maintain Air-Ride comfort.

The bolt on basic package utilizes an air stem mounted in a convenient location to add or remove air from the system

Currently available for front and rear suspension in Dodge Series 250 & 350 trucks Available soon for Dodge Dakota models

Also available for some Ford, Chevy and GMC truck models Special orders available for most motor homes This option will smooth out the ride on those rough-road fishing/ camping trips

PEQUEA

Models 510S, 515E, 520, 520H, 525 & 530T Bunk Feeders

Here's a better way to feed your herd! With the Pequea portable bunk feeder, you'll save time – save money. Load it up with silage, haylage, round or square bales or any mixture of grain and forage. Tow it into the field, and feed up to 52 head of cattle at once.

With Pequea's efficient slant-bar system cows can't push each other away from feeding spaces, so you have less feed loss from spills. Convenient low tank height accomodates any size cow

You can save wear and tear on your pasture and they eliminate heavily trampled spots. Just move it to a new location each day

Manufactured for the smaller-scale farmer or horse barmer, the Pequea Model 85 & 110 manure spreaders are built to make a dirty job easier. Constructed of 10 gauge Cor-Ten steel to resist corrosion, the Model 85 & 110 feature Quik-Tach T-bar web chains for ease of maintenance. High-strength steel frame is designed for big loads and fast field travel. Tough, alloy-steel beater and paddles rip through manure for fine, even spread patterns. Ground-drive action minimizes HP requirements. A hydraulic end-gate is available as optional equipment. Both Model 85 bushel & 110 bushel capacity deliver big spreader features in an economical, maintenance-free size.

National FFA Convention Breaks Attendance Record, Names Officers

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — More than 37,000 FFA members and guests were enthusiastic, excited, and motivated after being challenged to develop "Leadership for a Lifetime" during the 68th National FFA Convention, Nov. 9-11.

The record crowd of FFA members and guests from throughout the country and beyond came to experience the world's largest annual student gathering and to show their support for the blue and gold of the FFA. Last year's attendance was 34,372.

Members had the opportunity to hear words of wisdom from some nationally-known speakers, including Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman, Senator Richard Lugar of Indiana, and Miss America Shawntel Smith. These speakers challenged members to hone the leadership skills that would assist them throughout their life.

During the opening Reflections program, the 1994-1995 national FFA officers got the standing-room-only crowd on its feet and ready to experience a convention that would provide them with new ideas and fresh approaches to take back to their chapters.

Other speakers who inspired the convention attendees were Diana Golden, Olympic gold medal skier; Fred McClure, past national FFA officer and one of Time magazine's 50 most promising leaders 40 and under; John Alston, motivational speaker; Jeanne Robertson, humorist; David Toma, former New York City police officer; and Emanuel Cleaver, mayor of Kansas City, Mo.

The National Agricultural Career Show featured nearly 300 exhibitors, including colleges and universities with agricultural programs, as well as industry representatives for production agriculture, agribusiness, agriscience, and other diverse agricultural areas. In addition to learning more about opportunities in agriculture, members could enjoy live entertainment, browse through the FFA shopping mall, and grab a bite to eat at the FFA Food Court.

FFA members participated in the multitude of convention activities including career development events, awards ceremonies, leadership workshops and a salute to sponsors who make possible the extensive offering of FFA programs through the National FFA Foundation. The Honorary American FFA Degree, Distinguished Service Award, and VIP Citation were awarded to businesses and individuals who support the organization. The FFA awarded 1,466 American FFA Degrees, the highest degree earned by an FFA member.

In transacting the official business of the organization, delegates voted on proposals and made recommendations to the board of directors. The delegates voted to increase national dues from $3.50 to $5 per year.

The National FFA Alumni convention held on Nov. 8 included leadership workshops, awards ceremonies, and another successful auction, raising more than $48,000 to support FFA programs.

FFA Elects 1995-96 National FFA Officer Team

Leading the six-member team is national FFA president Seth Derner, 20, of Bartlett, Neb. The national secretary is Cody Wagner, 19, of Banner, Wyo. Vice presidents representing each region are: central region, Joe Caffee, 20, of Geneva, Ind.; eastern region, William Catania, 19, of Westfield, N.Y.; southern region, Clara-Leigh Horn, 20, of Ashville, Ala.; and western region, Andy McCall, 19, of Houston, Texas. The officers will take a year-long leave of absence from college to serve their term.

Derner, the son of Dennis and Sharon Derner, is a member of the Wheeler Central FFA Chapter. His local advisors are David Nichols and Robert Swett. Derner's supervised agricultural experience (SAE) program consists of a cow/calf operation, ranch improvement, and placement in agricultural production. He is a junior majoring in agricultural education at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Wagner's parents are Jim and Sally Wagner and he is a member of the John B. Kendrick FFA Chapter. Wagner's local advisers are Jim Bohn and Nick Siddle. His SAE program is diverse and consists of a beef and sheep operation and agriculture sales and service enterprises. A sophomore at the University of Wyoming, Wagner is studying molecular biology.

Caffee, the son of Dennis and Rebecca Caffee, is a member of the South Adams FFA Chapter. His local adviser is Fred Schuman. Caffee's diverse SAE consists of beef and poultry production, agricultural processing, and agricultural communications. He attends Purdue University, where he is a sophomore majoring in agricultural education.

Catania is the son of William and Toni Catania. A member of the Westfield FFA Chapter, his adviser is Phil Baideme. Catania's SAE involves turf management, landscape management, fruit production, and horticulture. He is a freshman majoring in psychology at Fredonia State University.

Horn's parents are Wallace and Diana Horn. She is a member of the Ashville FFA Chapter where her local adviser is Tommy Hill. Her SAE is a diversified livestock operation that consists of lambs, hogs, steers, heifers and horses. Horn is a junior at Auburn University majoring in basic science/preveterinary medicine.

McCall is the son of Michael and Karen McCall. A member of the Cypress Creek FFA Chapter, his local advisers are Kevin Page and Wayne Sales. McCall's SAE consists of showing swine and raising rabbits. He is a sophomore at Lubbock Christian University where he is majoring in agricultural business.

During their year of service the national officers will each travel more than 100,000 miles and make hundreds of appearances on behalf of the FFA. The national officers represent members to officials in government, business, education, and agriculture. As they travel during the year, they meet with members on the local, state and national levels.

American Star Farmer And American Star In Agribusiness

Randy Petroshus, 21, Allegan, Mich., and Wade Kallevig, 21, Willmar, Minn., were named the American Star Farmer and the American Star in Agribusiness, respectively, at the 68th National FFA Convention. Each received a $2,000 cash award and will participate in an international experience program in Europe for achieving the FFA's highest honor.

Each star was chosen from a field of four national finalists. Darrell S. Glodowski, 21, Amherst Junction, Wis.; Benji Ortman, 21, Westport, Ind.; and J. Ryan White, 21, Sturgis, Ky., were the other three star farmer candidates. Larry Edward Duffner, 21, Ephrata, Wash.; Chad Eric Reinhart, 21, Normal, Ill.; and Chad Alan Thixton, 21, Salem, Ind., were the other three star in agribusiness candidates. The finalists were selected from 1,466 American FFA Degree recipients, and each finalist received $1,000.

National, state and local FFA officials selected the stars on the basis of knowledge of their enterprises, management skills, return on investments and growth of their programs. The stars were also judged on leadership abilities demonstrated through their FFA activities.

American Star Farmer

Randy Petroshus' first calf died soon after he entered it in a dairy show. Evidence that the Allegan, Mich., seven-year-old should find another career aspiration? Apparently not. Petroshus, now 21 years old, stayed with dairy farming, bought another heifer the next spring and now has 190 head of Holsteins.

Petroshus' determination and agricultural success have earned him recognition as the 1995 National FFA American Star Farmer, one of the agricultural education organization's highest honors.

Petroshus began his agricultural career as a young boy, making $1 an hour doing chores on the family farm. His income source gradually shifted to the Allegan County Fair, which "was always a big money maker to generate funds to buy more cows and heifers," he said.

Showing livestock taught him marketing essentials such as showmanship and grooming, but also life lessons — namely how to lose, he said. Those life lessons continued after Petroshus joined FFA in 1988.

"It wasn't long before I learned that FFA was more than judging cows at the Agricultural Skills Contest in Lansing," he said. "I began to get involved in all the leadership activities as well, and eventually met a whole new world of friends." He was elected Michigan state FFA officer in 1992. His FFA adviser is Robert Brown.

As a student in the dairy management program at Michigan State University, Petroshus gained new ideas about the dairy industry. His two-year collegiate judging team placed second in Holsteins at the 1992 World Dairiy Expo in Madison, Wis.

Petroshus recently became a partner with his parents, Jerome and Virginia Petroshus. They operate more than 750 acres and own 550 head of cattle. Currently, they are designing and planning a state-of-the-art 400 milking facility.

Charles Snyder, FFA projects consultant, recommended Petroshus highly for the American Star Farmer Award. "Randy's leadership is only exceeded by his honesty, dedication, hard work and a vision for the future of agriculture and how he can play a role in establishing a future for young agriculturists such as himself," he said.

American Star In Agribusiness

Wade Kellevig owns and operates a successful seed conditioning plant in Willmar, Minn. He processes more than five million pounds of soybeans annually, distributing them locally, regionally and in Japan. While Kallevig's success would be admirable under any circumstance, it becomes especially noteworthy when his age comes into play. Kallevig is only 21 years old.

The National FFA Organization recognized Kallevig's success by naming him 1995 American Star in Agribusiness, one of the agricultural education organization's highest honors.

Kallevig began growing soybeans on a 7.5 acre field as a freshman in high school. The next year he increased to 43.5 acres, bought a tractor, and rented a neighbor's grain cleaner. Kallevig eventually purchased the cleaner and moved it onto his family's farm. He has since built a new processing plant and warehouse, and now processes more than 83,000 bushels of soybeans annually.

Several of Kallevig's largest customers sought him out for his reputation for high quality processing. He has contracts with ICI Seeds, a division of Zeneca Inc.; Cenex/Land O' Lakes Seeds; Minnesota Public Seeds; and Access Marketing, which markets his seeds in Japan.

Unlike many young agriculturists, Kallevig did not step into an existing family business, but created his own. Kallevig said he has benefited from learning the seed business "from the ground up." Raising certified seed taught him the growing end of the business. Planning his own expansions and operating his facilities initiated him into the seed processing industry. Working with both individual customers and large companies has helped him develop excellent sales skills. Concerted record keeping gives him a firm handle on the business, and managing employees has given him human resources experience.

Kallevig, son of Steve and Cindy Kallevig, is active in several crop associations. He has participated in numerous local, regional, state, and national FFA activities and was Minnesota's FFA Star in Production in 1992. Kallevig is a member of the Willmar FFA Chapter, and his advisors are D. Hanson and N. Pearson.

FFA Foundation Raises $6.07 Million

For the 29th consecutive year, the National FFA Foundation has set a record level of support for FFA and agricultural education programs. At the 68th National FFA Convention, H.D. "Harry" Cleberg, 1995 FFA Foundation Sponsors' Board chairman, announced that the Foundation raised a total of $6,070,000 in 1995 to support projects and programs for FFA and agricultural education, an all-time record. A crowd of more than 35,000 FFA members and guests cheered the announcement.

Cleberg, president and chief executive officer of Farmland Industries, Inc., said the contributions of the more than 1,000 Foundation sponsors help prepare future agricultural leaders.

"The FFA provides excellent training, not only for agricultural careers, but also for personal leadership skills," he said. "My industry colleagues and I know that supporting the FFA today ensures us well-trained, motivated employees tomorrow."

Cleberg introduced 1996 FFA Foundation Sponsors' Board Chairman-elect Allan R. Johnson, president of Farm Progress Companies, Inc. Johnson announced the 1996 Foundation theme, "FFA — Leadership for a Lifetime."

Since 1944, the National FFA Foundation has provided more than $63 million to FFA members for awards, scholarships and achievement programs.

Farm Employee Management Seminar In Mid-December

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—Finding and keeping good employees is a continual struggle for many farm businesses. Some farmers don't expand their businesses because it would require hiring employees.

"Employment Management for Farm Business" is a two-day seminar designed to help farm managers meet the challenge of developing a strong and productive team of employees.

The seminar, sponsored by Farm Credit, is being offered in two Pennsylvania locations in mid-December. According to Jonas Kauffman, executive director of Farm Credit Financial Management Service, the seminar will be useful for farm managers who employ or are considering hiring at least one full-time employee and to key middle managers who supervise one or more employees.

"Over 500 farm businesses in New York and New England have enjoyed this Farm Credit-sponsored seminar, and we are very pleased to be able to bring it to Pennsylvania's farm managers," said Kauffman.

Among the topics to be discussed at the seminar are recruiting, interviewing, and training new employees; motivating different types of employees; developing a compensation and incentive plan; and improving communication within your business.

The seminars will be held Dec. 13 and 20 at the Carlisle Holiday Inn and Dec. 14 and 21 at the Williamsport Sheraton Inn.

Additional participants from the same farm can register for a reduced fee of $125. Registration deadline is Dec. 5. For more information or to register, call Jonas Kauffman at (800) 477-9947.

Md. Pleasure Horse Seminar Set

COCKEYSVILLE, Md.—The 1995 Maryland Pleasure Horse Seminar will be held Dec. 9 at the South Carroll High School, Rt. 26, Winfield, Md.

Participants have the opportunity to choose three different seminars from the nine offered, plus the chance to attend selected repeat seminars or one of the on-farm demonstrations.

The registration desk and commercial exhibit area open at 8 a.m. Many exhibitors will be on hand to "show and tell" about products and services available to horse owners.

Seminar sessions begin at 9 a.m. with keynote speakers, Carville B. Collins, Esq. of the Maryland Chamber of Commerce and Rich Wilcke of the University of Louisville, discussing "Current Issues of Tort Reform in Maryland."

Seminar sessions will follow throughout the day and adjourn at 4:30 p.m.

Seminar choices offer a variety of topics including the following: Dr. Sarah Ralston from Rutgers University discussing "Practical Feeding Management" and "Care and Feeding of the Geriatric Horse." Julie I. Fershtman, Esq., attorney specializing in equine-related law issues will talk about "Avoiding Liability" and "Contracts, Agreements and Guarantees." "Manure Disposal Alternatives" will be presented by Bryan Butler and David Greene from the Carroll County Cooperative Extension Service office.

Mary D. Midkiff of equestrian resources will give a very important presentation on "Safety." Dr. Les Vough will discuss "Pasture Maintenance and Management" and Dr. Malcom J. Commer, Jr. will talk about "Budgeting and Financial Controls For Your Horse Operation." Robert Sigafoos from New Bolton Center will present information on "Foot Care and Shoeing."

Concurrent on-farm demonstrations are "How to Body Condition Score Horses" by Dr. Sarah Ralston, "Basic Physical Exam Techniques" and "Animal Handling Practices and the Administration of Animal Health Products" by Dr. Doug Carmel, and "Determining Equine Conformation" by Sally and Robert Shirley.

Advanced registration is required. The cost for the entire day including seminar, lunch, and materials is only $15 per person (on-farm demonstrations are an additional $10 per person).

To assure your place at this seminar, register by contacting the Carroll County Cooperative Extension office at (410) 848-4611 or contact Baltimore County Cooperative Extension office at (410) 666-1022 to receive a brochure.

Survey Shows Soybean Farmers Share Herbicide Concerns

PHILADELPHIA — Midwestern soybean growers have one overriding concern when selecting a herbicide to use. They don't want it to restrict their ability to rotate to corn, wheat or other crops. Southern soybean growers are greatly concerned about rotation restrictions but not as concerned as they are about controlling all broadleaf weeds with a single herbicide.

Research to determine what factors influence soybean farmers' herbicide selection was done recently by Total Research Corporation for FMC Agricultural Products Group. More than 1,000 farmers from across soybean production areas of the country were surveyed.

According to the Authority Research Survey, rotation restrictions and controlling all broadleaf weeds topped the list of herbicide benefits that farmers deem the most important, whether they were midwestern or southern soybean growers.

"It was obvious that soybean farmers want new herbicides that provide total weed control without restrictions to their rotated crop," said Nick Phillips, FMC Authority herbicide venture manager.

Possible rotation restrictions for any herbicide used in soybean production was the main consideration for 30 percent of the growers — 18 percent in the midwest and 12 percent in the south.

Control of all broadleaves and some grasses was the top priority by 29 percent of the growers — 14 percent in the midwest and 15 percent in the south.

The next most important decision factor which would influence farmers to use a herbicide was confidence that it would control herbicide resistant weeds. A total of 21 percent of the farmers — 10 percent in the midwest and 11 percent in the south — listed this concern.

In a related question, 54 percent of all the farmers questioned said they were somewhat or very concerned about weed resistance to herbicide chemistries. Seventy-four percent of the 403 southern soybean growers were somewhat or very concerned, and 61 percent of the 612 midwestern soybean farmers were somewhat or very concerned.

"We were surprised that so many farmers are beginning to worry that weeds on their farms may become resistant to current herbicides," Phillips said. "FMC has an answer for some of this concern. Authority herbicide has a different mode of action than the current ALS inhibitor market leaders which have recently been the center of resistance discussion. A different mode of action herbicide like Authority, which is a PPO inhibitor, will give farmers an alternative."

State Program Approves Matching Funds For Fairs

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced that capital improvement projects at Pennsylvania fairs will get a boost from matching funds approved by the Fair Fund Committee of the Penn-sylvania Fair Board.

"We're pleased to provide matching funds for improvements to Pennsylvania's fairs," Brosius said. "Pennsylvania fairs provide food, entertainment, and learni g experiences for millions of residents and visitors every year."

The Fair Fund Committee recently approved funding for 32 matching projects at Pennsylvania fairs. A total of $559,243 is available from the $3.7 million Fair Fund for this purpose.

The Fair Program, which is administered by the Agriculture Department, appropriates these funds to improve buildings and grounds, acquire new land, or construct new facilities.

Following is a county-by-county listing of those capital improvement projects that will receive a matching grant from the Fair Fund Committee.

• Beaver County: Located in Rochester, the Big Knob Grange Fair was approved for a $4,441 grant to build a new roof on the main exhibit hall.

Ohio Ag Land Values On Upswing

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Rising agricultural land prices mirror a good farm economy in Ohio, even though values still have a long haul to reach peak levels of the early 1980s, said an Ohio State University agricultural economist.

Allan Lines predicts that agricultural land in Ohio will average $1,833 per acre in 1996. However, when adjusted for inflation, this equates to $1,121 per acre compared to the 1981 peak of $1,831 per acre, or a $710-per-acre difference.

"Land prices have recovered in terms of dollars but have not necessarily come back in terms of the inflationary impact in the economy," Lines said.

Land value gains are due to some of the best crop prices in years, projected to give farmers a net income gain of $295 million in 1996, Lines said. Modest gains in land values should continue through the rest of this decade as projected increases in agricultural exports give strong support to grain prices.

Higher crop prices should also soften the impact on land prices should Congress reduce or eliminate subsidies in the next farm bill, Lines said. Farm programs contribute less than $100 per acre to land values anyway.

Farmers' balance sheets show they are on more solid financial ground these days. They became more financially conservative after swallowing the bitter pill of the farm crisis in the early- to mid-1980s.

"Basically, it's a situation where farmers have paid off their debt in the last few years, have had strong incomes, and the cash position on their balance sheets has increased," Lines said.

A stronger financial picture has put farmers in the mood for buying land, so traffic should be brisk at land auctions in the coming year. Land prices away from urban areas will be driven by farmers' demand rather than by such non-agricultural uses as housing and retail developments, he said.

Lines said farmers still need to be cautious, but not necessarily afraid of re-entering the land market. Buying land makes sense if it makes the operation more efficient than other investments. The farmer should also consider whether a bigger operation will improve the family's standard of living, he said.

However, a farmer can get the same benefits by renting land, which can be cheaper than an outright purchase. Farmers who rent also forgo capital gains increases.

To play it safe, the farmer should be able to cover a "significant portion" of the land purchase in cash. He recommends an amount equal to half of the purchase price.

Farmers' main concern should be to learn from history and not repeat mistakes of overeagerness, Lines said.

"I want farmers to be wary of what happened 15 years ago," he said. "Don't bypass the memory or experience some other people had by making what seemed to be a good deal and having it go sour."

Conference Set

WESTMINSTER, Md. — The 1995 Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference will be held at Carroll Community College (Room 157) on Wednesday evenings, Dec. 6 and 13, from 7 p.m.-9 p.m.

This year's conference will be a satellite downlink teleconference with transmissions beginning at 7 p.m. The following topics and speakers are included:

- No Till Forage and Pasture Renovation — Harland White, VPI & Lynn Hoffman, Penn State
- No Till Corn Planters and Drill Adjustment and Maintenance — Lynn Hoffman, Penn State
- Row Cleaners and Strip Tillage — Dan Griffith, Purdue; Randall Reeder, Ohio State University & West Virginia Farmers
- Soil Compaction — Identification and Correction — Randall Reeder, Ohio State
- High Residue Farming and Crop Diseases — Pat Lipps, Ohio State
- New Herbicides and Conservation Tillage Weed Control — Bill Curran, Penn State
- What's New in Conservation Tillage — Various Speakers

In addition to these presentations, there will be opportunities for call-in questions.

Preregistration by Dec. 4 is requested for this conference. To preregister or request more information on this conference, call the Carroll County Cooperative Extension Office at (410) 848-4611.

This year's 22nd annual Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference has gone "high-tech." Instead of a traditional one-location meeting, it will be downlinked via television satellite at numerous county extension offices and other sites throughout Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia, as well as in New York state and Ohio — or anyplace with a satellite dish capable of picking up the KU band.

There are two dates involved — Wednesday, Dec. 6, and Wednesday, Dec. 13. The times are 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. and program topics are different each night.

NO-TIL GRAIN DRILL SPECIALISTS

Building NO-TIL DRILLS Since 1982

FEATURING Parallel Linkage, Double Disc Openers
GREAT PLAINS Drills Put Seeds Where You Want It -
But The LITTLE THINGS Make the Difference!

1 SPEED-CHANGE GEARBOX makes seeding rate changes easier

3 DIAL-A-DEPTH system makes changing planting depth quick & easy

2 FLUTED SEED CUPS - a Great Plains exclusive - deliver outstanding accuracy. Whether the seed you're drilling is small, large or fragile, the Great Plains time-proven metering system will deliver the rate you choose evenly and gently - without scuffing.

4 LARGE ALL-WELDED SEEDBOX holds up to 3 bushels per foot. The lid is rain tight to protect your seed.

Finally, a practical way to apply organic mulch to row crops

Organic mulch is the natural way to suppress weeds, help retain soil moisture, and improve soil conditions. Trouble is, hand mulching takes too much time and effort. Now the Millcreek Row Mulcher makes it easy and affordable to mulch berries, grapes, fruit trees, and other row crops. One operator can mulch an acre in just a couple hours depending on conditions.

Spread A Variety of Materials, Including Lime

You can spread all types of stemless flowable mulches, such as wood chips, sawdust, chopped bark, even compost, with plenty of clearance to avoid plant damage. Plus, the Millcreek Row Mulcher is ideal for banding lime and other materials requiring lighter applications. The optional metering gate gives you complete control of the coverage so you can tailor applications to best suit your cultivation practices. With the labor-saving versatility you get with the Millcreek Row Mulcher, you may even find new techniques to grow better crops.

For Small Growers

For Commercial Growers
Choose from 3.1, 4.5, and 6.8 cubic yard capacities. Or call to discuss your special requirements.

One "Farm-Tough" Machine
With our own farming background, we take great satisfaction in building affordable machines for growers like you who need reliable, trouble-free equipment to help increase production and keep costs down. That's just what the Millcreek Row Mulcher will do for you. Call today.

Simply Reliable

MASSEY FERGUSON®

Its unsurpassed capacity, efficiency and thorough, yet gentle, grain separation comes from an exclusive rotor design. And its outstanding reliability and lower operating costs from its simplicity of design. Just compare the MF 8570 to any other combine. Compare the number of belts, chains, augers, U-joints, variable-speed pulleys and grease fittings.

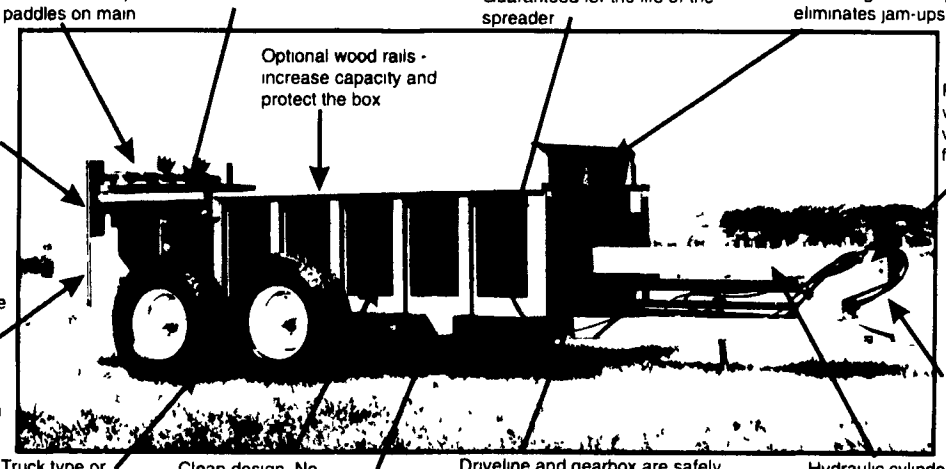
HYDRA-SPREAD - Hydraulic Push-Off Manure Spreader



Single or two beater designs Aggressive, high-speed beaters - with up to 15 paddles per beater - deliver a fine uniform spread Replaceable bolted paddles on main beater

Optional slurry pan prevents spills Controls sloppy or fine materials for even finer more uniform spreading

Fully shielded PTO with overload protection

Truck type or flotation tires to suit your needs

MF® 300 Series 55-95 PTO hp tractors

MASSEY FERGUSON®

18.6 Speedshift provides a gear for every operation and clutchless speed changes. This option for cab and footstep model MF 375, MF 390, MF 390T and MF 399 tractors provides on-the-go speed changes without clutching. All shifts are fully synchronized, even between ranges, for maximum comfort, convenience and productivity.
